Contrary to original expectations, one of the effects of the war is to cheapen, instead of raise, prices.

This is owing to the fact that Manufacturers are making desperate efforts to keep their machines running, and their hands employed. Nothing could be more disastrous to a city than unemployment.
Farmer's large business not only enables them to take advantage of every bargain opportunity, but to make such fortunate transactions a double incentive to the community to make liberal, profitable purchases, and so help to keep the factories busily employed.

The GEM JUNIOR provides a KEEN BLADE for EVERY day in the week. Every Blade AUTOMATICALLY ADJUSTS itself, and, as the BLADE does the SHAVING, it is the First Consideration. GEM JUNIOR BLADES are HAND-GROUND, and are made from the best Razor Steel, tempered by a process patented by the Gem Cutlery Co. (the oldest makers of Safety Razors), that provides a keen, lasting edge.
The GEM JUNIOR SAFETY RAZOR is made and finished in the BEST STYLE of the BEST MATERIALS, and by the BEST Workmanship. It comprises Nickel-plated Frames, extra handle for Stropping Blades, and seven KEEN-EDGED BLADES, packed in neat case.

The DURHAM DEMONSTRATOR RAZOR affords the correct sliding diagonal stroke, together with a safety guard and interchangeable blades, and, therefore, enables you to shave correctly and with safety. It does not cut you—neither does it scrape nor pull.

Shaving with the CURLEY IDEAL leaves the face smooth, soft, and cool. There is no irritating pull with the Curley Ideal, which possesses a Safety Guard that prevents cutting the skin.

AN OIL PAINTING.
BY THE NEW PROCESS
A CHARMING LIFE-LIKE PORTRAIT,
FREE, FREE, FREE,
AS AN ADVERTISEMENT.
READ, MARK, LEARN, AND GET A PRIZE.
In introducing the new and wonderful life-like Oil Colour Portraits to Sydney, we are, for the purpose of a speedy advertisement, offering a beautiful Oil Painting Portrait, size 20 x 16 inches, artistically and massively framed, together with Six Cabinet Portraits, for Twenty-five Shillings, either taken from life or copied from a good photo. The Cabinets and frame are 25/, the Oil Colour Portrait with this offer is given free without any charge whatever, and it is of wonderful value. No man in Sydney twelve months ago could have produced it for Fifty Guineas, but we are now giving it for nothing, just as an introduction, after which the price will be £2/2/ and no less (20 x 16 for head and shoulder is full three-quarter life size).
A column, a page, or a whole paper of talk, could not convey the charm, the true life-like effect, the masterly blending of tones, and the wonderful colour scheme of these speaking and ever-valued art treasures; each one must become a precious family heirloom, to be handed down from generation to generation, and the frame is worthy of the picture.
Twenty-five shillings, fancy? Twenty-five Shillings and twelve months ago £25 would not have bought it. So get it while you may.

We are confident that every person taking advantage of this offer will become a constant purchaser, so great will be the satisfaction they derive.

Be Personally Fitted.

Our earnest advice to everyone purchasing Corsets is "BE PERSONALLY FITTED."

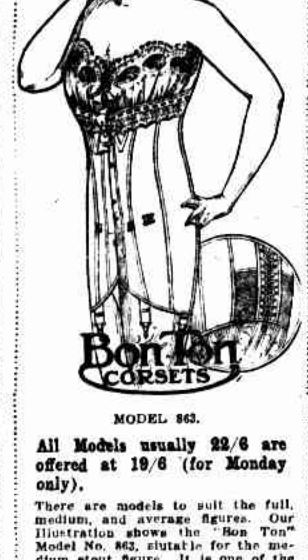

We cannot be too emphatic on this point, our experience teaching us more and more each day the absolute necessity for doing so. Our one aim in selling Corsets is to supply the "right" model for each figure, and we are convinced that the one and only satisfactory way of doing so is by a personal fitting. Whether you buy a model at 5/11 or 5 guineas, the personal fitting is absolutely essential, and our Corsetieres are equally willing to tender their advice, and give all possible help.

We are sure that if we can persuade each customer to be fitted once, the additional ease, comfort, and freedom derived will be quite sufficient to ensure every succeeding Corset being "Personally Fitted."

In addition to our Usual Staff of Experienced Saleswomen, we have engaged six expert fitters, whose valuable knowledge and careful attention will be at your service throughout the week.

To save disappointment and delay, it is very essential to make your appointment for fitting.

THE FIGURE LINE HAS CHANGED

and on the correct choice of Corset depends the accomplishment of "The New Figure Line."

The decided change in figure line from that of 1913 gives more grace to the figure, and ensures ease and freedom. The waist has disappeared, and the hips have been straightened, tending to give a more slight appearance. As the corset forms the basis upon which the dress is modelled, it is highly important that before choosing new gowns a corset conforming to the new figure line be fitted. It should be remembered that to obtain the new figure line two, and in some cases, three sizes larger waists than last season are necessary, so if last year you wore, say, size 24, you will now require size 26 or 27. Country residents, when ordering Corsets, should state size required, and say if they have allowed for larger waist (as required for new figure line), or have mentioned size usually worn. The Royal Worcester Corsets transform the figure naturally to the graceful curves of the new figure line now in vogue, in addition to which many of the models possess the very notable "Free Hip Bone" idea. This is a cleverly designed feature, which ensures that no steels, gores, or seams can touch the wearer's hips, simply the soft and lightly resting Corset Fabric. You should call this week and inspect these models.

MODEL 607 (FRIDAY).

FRIDAY.

Our Renowned "Adjusto" Corset, Model 607, offered Friday only, 16/6. Usually 18/6.

The illustration depicts the splendid "Adjusto" Corset, Model 607, which is specially constructed for full figures. It is a Free Hip Bone Model, and is everything that could be desired in a reducing Corset. It has many practical features, and the latest improvement is the invisible buckle on the adjusting bands, and the elastic gore at the back. An admirable Corset. Made in either Grey or White Coutil. Sizes, 24 to 36 inches waist measurement.

REMEMBER, THE REDUCED PRICE IS FOR FRIDAY ONLY, 16/6. USUALLY 18/6.

CHAPTER VII.
FORESTALLED.

With a mutual instinct actuating each, Graye and the detective walked into the lounge of the hotel and sought out a quiet corner. Wirlescombe turned to his companion with a smile.

"This is another proof of the truth of the saying that all roads lead to Rome," he said. "Yours has led you here, anyway."

"And yours, evidently," answered Graye. "And now that our two roads converge——"

"You want to know how mine got here?" said Wirlescombe. "Well, maybe we are come to the same point. You are here, of course, after Ottilia Morro. Let's be plain and brief, to start with. You, first. You've found out where Ottilia Morro is?"

"I have. She is a nun—she lives in a convent here in Rome. It is a convent of one of the very strictest of the enclosed orders. All the same, I have letters of introduction in my pocket that I believe will bring her to light, even if she were buried a hundred feet deep beneath the floor of the Catacombs. Listen!"

And he gave the detective a brief resume of all he had done and heard, and laid special emphasis on the fact that the old priest had said, three times over, that the innocent must not suffer.

"It struck me then, and it has been striking me more than ever all the way in the train between Naples and Rome, that the old gentleman knows more of this matter than he told me," concluded Graye. "I think that Ottilia Morro told him a great deal under the seal of confession, for he was obviously startled and shocked, not to say greatly upset, when I said that Lady Wargrave was accused of her grandfather's murder."

"Yes, but you'll get no more out of him than out of this table," said Wirlescombe. "The only hope for Lady Wargrave is that Ottilia may be moved to tell in public what she has probably told to this old priest. And that leads me to think that you and I are coming to a more definite point than I had fancied. Haven't I said all along that I was sure that if we could find the murderer of the unknown man we should find the murderer of Marco Graffi?

"Well, I have at any rate found out who the unknown man was. Or, at any rate, I am morally certain who he was. His name was Carlo Cafferata, and he had some connection with a residence numbered in the Via Nazionale here in Rome."

"How did you find out that?"

"You have told me your tale—now I will tell mine," said Wirlescombe. And he proceeded to unfold the story of the pocket-book, and of what he had found in it. "At last," he concluded, "I believe I am on the right track. It seems to me that this Cafferata went from here to Paris and London, seeing Stefano di Spada in one place, seeking——and probably finding without difficulty—Lucien di Spada in the other. He certainly saw old Marco Graffi on the night on which Marco met his death. According to your account, during the interview which took place between Marco and Cafferata, while you were in the flat, Marco fetched papers from his bedroom, and there is strong presumption, from what I remember of my examination of the fire-grate in the sitting-room in which the interview took place, that those papers were burnt by the two men. Now, this man, Cafferata then left, and during the night Marco Graffi was murdered. And the whole problem seems to me to lie in an answer to the question—what was the connection between Cafferata, the Di Spadas, and Graffi, and were the Di Spadas and Cafferata in league together to get rid of Graffi, and why?"

"That's surely not one question, but three questions, which seem to be only a part of a series of questions," said Graye. "And I don't see how you're going to get answers to any of the particular three. Now let me suggest something. So far as my remembrance goes——and it's pretty keen——there was not much doubt that the weapon produced by the workman at the coroner's inquest was the one used on the old man, the stiletto that was certainly Gemma's—Lady Wargrave's?"

"No—not much doubt about that," agreed Wirlescombe, having thought for a moment. "No. I remember that, now."

"And the caretaker's wife, Mrs. ——"

"Acock."

"Mrs. Acock—yes—didn't she say that the stiletto had disappeared for some time previous to the murder?"

"She said that she hadn't seen it lying on Miss Gemma's dressing-table, where she had usually observed it."

"Well—how came the murderer, whoever he or she was—for it might just as well have been a woman as a man—to get possession of that stiletto? There's a lot in that, Wirlescombe!"

The detective meditated for a time. At last he shook his head.

"I don't attach much importance to that," he remarked. "Mrs. Acock said that she hadn't seen the stiletto for some time, but what does that amount to? You know, and I know, that the room which old Graffi used as a study—the one you had supper in—and his bedroom were littered with books, papers, instruments, and all sorts of odds and ends. The stiletto might have been placed or misplaced amongst these matters, and the murderer might snatch it up at the critical moment."

But Graye, in his turn, shook his head, and he smiled.

"No!" he said, with decision. "You're wrong there, Wirlescombe. Because that would prove that the murder was done as a sudden thing, done on the spur of the moment. But it wasn't. It was surely the work of careful arrangement, of premeditation. Whoever killed Marco Graffi carried that stiletto on him, or on her."

"Yes," said Wirlescombe. "I think you're right. I hadn't quite considered that point. But you say 'him or her.' You think a woman might be the guilty party?"

"Why not? I have always believed that the murder of Marco Graffi was the work of some secret society. Why should they not employ the hand of a woman? A woman can move about more noiselessly than a man. You never went into the history of the various tenants of Austerlitz Mansions, you know. There may have been some Italian woman there who had reason for killing Marco Graffi for anything we know to the contrary."

Wirlescombe paid no apparent heed to this suggestion. He sat thinking for a time.

"Well, there's one thing we can do at once in reference to all that," he said. "I'll wire just now to Kenrick, and get him to find out first thing to-morrow morning from Lady Wargrave what she did with that stiletto. We ought to have thought of that before. I'll send the wire now. In the meantime, consider how we can work together and what we can do."

When he returned from despatching the telegram, Wirlescombe found Graye evidently determined on a course of action. He looked at the detective with the eyes of a man who sees an object, and is resolved to make for it.

"There's only one thing that ought to be done at first," he said, "and I must do it, whatever you may do. I must see Ottilia Morro."

"Yes," said Wirlescombe. "I suppose so. But—she won't tell you anything. Don't flatter yourself that she will, because she won't. If all is as I suspect, Ottilia Morro won't tell anything except in a witness-box and on oath."

Graye gave his companion a sharp look.

"Suspect!—as you suspect!" he said. "Why—what do you suspect?"

"Nothing definite. But when a young woman who is enjoying a public career as a cantatrice, who is in the hey-day of youth, who is flourishing at the height of her beauty, forsakes the world and buries herself in the living tomb of a strictly-enclosed religious order, she doesn't do it for nothing, Dr. Graye. She has a reason. And Ottilia Morro is Italian."

Graye looked at the detective wonderingly, doubtfully.

"I believe you are beginning to fancy that Ottilia Morro had something to do with the murder of old Graffi!" he exclaimed. "Do you?"

Wirlescombe laughed.

"It's conceivable that I might," he answered. "Perhaps I can tell you more definitely in the morning. Now, I'm going to bed."

But next morning, when Graye proceeded from his bedroom, Wirlescombe was not to be found. The forenoon was half way through, and the young doctor waxing highly impatient, when the detective appeared. As he approached Graye, he waved a telegram.

"Well, here's news that seems pertinent," he said. "This is from Kenrick. He evidently posted off to see Lady Wargrave as soon as he reached his office. Read it."

Graye ran his eyes over the brief message.

"Lady Wargrave perfectly remembers the stiletto, and also that she made a present of it to Ottilia Morro, who had taken a fancy to it."

"What do you think of that?" asked Wirlescombe.

Graye shook his head. The detective stifled a yawn.

"SEVEN KEYS TO BALDPATE."

SUCCESSFUL MYSTERY FARCE.

"What do I care for the critics? I'm giving the public what it wants!" Thus Mr. Fred Niblo at the Criterion on Saturday night after he had skipped over the bank of flowers in front of the ladies of his company, and had bashfully removed the laurel wreath thrown over his head in recognition especially of his triumph as a producer. The actor-manager was not in bellicose mood, however, the remark forming part of a humorous and grateful speech upon the instantaneous success of "Seven Keys to Baldpate," which the speaker justly claimed as "a play of surprises, and, I venture to add, a genuine theatrical novelty."

George M. Cohan's "mystery-farce" is all that, and whilst it doubtless owes much to Earl Derr Biggers' original story, has been dramatised with masterly skill. The crowded audience which greeted this first performance in Australia had an advantage over any other in its complete ignorance of the dramatic scheme, so that the most jaded playgoers were delighted with two complete surprises. Mr. Niblo appealed to first-nighters to keep the enjoyable secret—the master-key to Baldpate—to themselves, and we have no intention of betraying it in print. On the other hand strong objection must be taken to the low gutter language of the Adventuress at a crisis which would be as effectively met by "Go to blazes."

Mr. Niblo himself plays one of the longest parts imaginable, though it does not give the comedian scope for all his talents, being that of a straight-forward hero and director of events. He develops, in fact, into a showy kind of "master of (dramatic) ceremonies." Suffice it, however, that he shows Magee, the novelist, as a pleasant and resourceful fellow, presenting the various phases of the character with confident ease, and assuming a tender love-lorn expression when surrendering at first sight combined with the touch of subconscious humour which wins the sympathy of the house. The object of Magee's admiration is Mary Norton, a newspaper reporter intent upon securing a colossal "scoop"—played with sincerity and the right touch of timid reserve in the love-scene by Miss Josephine Cohan, stylishly arrayed for a character that is slight, but certain in its appeal.

The curtain rises upon the office of the Baldpate Inn on mountain heights eight hours from New York. A light gallery runs round the office, which is more or less hexagonal in shape, with a glass roof, and glass doors at the back—a picturesque interior designed by Leslie Board. Magee has wagered Hal Bentley, the owner of this lofty summer resort, that he will write a story of 10,000 words between midnight and midnight. Baldpate, as deserted as a tomb in winter, has been chosen to ensure quiet, and some kind of inspiration removed from the melodrama of shilling shockers which have made the young novelist rich. The rustic caretaker, Elijah Quimby (Mr. Fred Cambourne), and his simple wife who is afraid of ghosts (Mrs. Charles Holloway), prepare the ice-cold hotel for the expected visitor's arrival, whose absolute seclusion is guaranteed by the fact that the only other known key to Baldpate is the one which he has in his pocket. So they welcome him with a huge fire, bid him a cheery "good-night," and leave him to his peaceful task! Picture him ascending to an upstairs room with his typewriter, heaps of paper, and 24 hours of loneliness his only inspiration.

The night of melodramatic horror which follows chiefly constitutes the drama. The whole world seems to boast a key, "the only key," to Baldpate. John Bland, right-hand man of a Renton railway magnate, enters to deposit 200,000 dollars in the safe in connection with one of his master's fraudulent enterprises. Mr. Sydney Stirling invests Bland with an air of desperate and deadly determination as he covers the surprised novelist with his gun. A little later Baldpate, which has more keys to it than a Steinway grand, admits Mary and her chaperone, Mrs. Rhodes (Marion Marcus Clarke), and then the ladies are alarmed by the entrance of the local hermit, a recluse who, his wife having eloped with a travelling man, lives in a cave, sells picture cards to the summer visitors, and plays "ghost" in the deserted hotel. Mr. Edwin Lester, wonderfully made-up for the character as a lanky bundle of nerves, attired in rabbit-skin trimmings and a weird smile, kept the house in roars every time he announced his hatred of women.

The bank notes in the safe attract a group of high-browed malefactors (each in turn armed with "the only key") to the romantic hostelry. The first act closes with six of them seated under the compelling influence of the novelist's pistol, awaiting a telephone message from Mary that she is in safety with the coveted coin far away in the town. They are still facing the audience, as if in the stocks, when the curtain rises again. Such a row of smartly differentiated types of shady character has not been placed in line with effects as ludicrous within the memory of the oldest playgoers. A scene of bitter recrimination gives prominence to Miss Gwen Burroughs, too airily clad for winter weather, but otherwise vividly in place as a handsome, reckless, defiant black-mailer. Her lover, Lou Max, cleverly represented by Mr. E. L. Delaney, as a nerve-shattered young wreck, as soon as she betrays him to his employers, shoots her dead, and excitement reaches its height when the Chief of Police bursts in. Uproarious laughter attended the Chief's endeavour to unravel the plot. The financial "crooks," headed by Mr. George Bryant, as the deep-voiced Mayor of Renten, and Mr. Maurice Dudley, as the dapper, peppery, little railway magnate, accuse the novelist, and then march off with the officer to show him the body. In the meantime the half-witted hermit has secretly removed the corpse to the cellar, and the superstitious horror of the gang throws the audience into a confusion of merriment. Mr. John De Lacey was excellent as the Chief of Police; and his concise summing-up of the complex case, in the cumulative style of "The House That Jack Built," was one of the events of the evening. Mr. E. Pirie Bush, as Hal Bentley, filled a minor role, important in its relation to a denouement which need not be further followed.

J. C. Williamson, Ltd., announce the first matinee of the new play, which is sure to enjoy a fine run, for Wednesday next.

AMUSEMENTS.

WESTERN SUBURBS PHILHARMONIC.

The concert given by the Western Suburbs Philharmonic Society at the Town Hall on Saturday night was a visible proof of the energy displayed by Mr. John Mansfield, and others, in the past 12 months, during which the personnel of the society has been increased from 30 to about 230 people. Though still, at times lacking in the subtleties and delicate shades that mark the fully-trained chorus, the work of all on this occasion entirely justified the exceptionally large audience present. However, the society still lacks one badly-needed thing—an orchestra. Many of the items—the Berlioz and other operatic excerpts, for instance—would have been materially improved with orchestral accompaniment, though this statement must in no sense be taken as derogatory to the accompanist, Miss Maud Ferguson, whose work throughout several trying items was praiseworthy for its sympathy and finish. Especial interest was attached to the programme by the first performance in Sydney of a Polonaise and chorus, "Noble Chief, Thee We Hail," from Glinka's "A Life for the Czar," the first National Russian opera, the composer having been described as "father of the new Nationalistic Russian School." The chorus was made thoroughly stirring (most of it is written to be sung double forte), and the technical difficulties were well surmounted, the item on the whole being rather ambitious.

Madame Slapoffski was associated with the chorus in the "Inflammatus," from Rossini's "Stabat Mater," in which the chorus accompaniments at no time overwhelmed the soloist. The soprano was heard later in Miss Lottie Hyam's "Ave Maria," accompanied by the composer, and with obbligatos by Mons. Henri Staell, Signor Torzillo, and Mrs. Lilian Frost.

The society's rendering of "On Then, Gallant Hearts," from Berlioz's "Faust," brought forth another stirring item, in which there was good ensemble work, and the repetition of the last line by the various parts provided an impressive close. Excerpts from Meyerbeer's "Le Prophete," Balfe's "Bohemian Girl," Rossini's "William Tell," Mendelssohn's "Welcome Heroes of Renown," and the National Anthems of England and France were also on the programme, the merit in their rendering varying considerably.

Among the assisting artists, Mr. Charles Walshe, in the absence of Mr. Bertram Fisham, gave several humorous items with success, and Signor Torzillo contributed several harp solos with acceptance. Mr. Alfred Rees sang with feeling Tosti's "Ideale," with "Macushla" as encore. At the close of the latter he made a commendable attempt to take a note rather beyond him. Mr. Charles Schmiedt sang with the chorus an excerpt from the "Stabat Mater" of Rossini, and later Pietman Lohr's "Pagan."

HERBERT SPRATT ENTERTAINMENT.

An attractive programme was presented by Herbert Spratt at St. James' Hall on Saturday evening, in which he had the assistance of Mrs. Clarence M'Coy, Mrs. Frank Wilson, Mrs. Jack Maiden, Miss Isobel Varley, Mr. Cyril Monk, Mr. J. D. Stephen, and Mr. Frank Wilson. The hall was filled, and the entertainment was greatly appreciated. Mr. Spratt's sketches were:—Musical, "A Suburban at Home;" dialect, "Proposals;" musical, "Water Scenes;" character, "In Springtime;" and dramatic scenes from "Julius Caesar." Mr. J. D. Stephen was in excellent voice in "My Dreams." Mr. Cyril Monk played "Old Viennese Waltz" and "Hungarian Dances."

BONNINGTON'S IRISH MOSS, best for a child's cold, if you get Bonnington's.—Advt.

"THE GLAD EYE."

On Saturday evening Messrs. Beaumont Smith and Louis Meyer commenced a comedy season at the Palace Theatre, opening with "The Glad Eye," an adaptation by Mr. Jose C. Levy, from the French farce, "Le Zebre," by MM. Armont and Nancy. There was a capital house. Miss Ethel Dane, who appeared as Kiki, in which she has made a name in various parts of the world, was cordially received, and with other ladies shared in the floral favours which were handed over the footlights at the close of the play.

It required no announcements on the programme of the fact that "The Glad Eye" is French in its origin. It smacks of frivolity, and presents as a central point upon which all its incidents converge the escapades of two married men—Gaston Bocard and Maurice Polignac—upon whom marital obligations press but lightly. They reside at the Chateau de Vercottes, near Paris, and in order to obtain a few days' excitement in the lively French metropolis, they concoct a story that they are taking a trip with a celebrated aeronaut in the balloon "Zebra." Unfortunately for their plans, it is reported that the Zebra's journey has been cut short by unforeseen circumstances, and the inconstant pair are forced to scamper home to avert suspicion. No sooner, however, is this accomplished than news arrives that the Zebra, having met with unfavourable weather, has been blown a long way out of her course, and Bocard and Polignac, in order to preserve their mendacity from exposure, prepare to leave the house instanter. As this strategic retreat must be accomplished secretly, they are driven into hiding from time to time, and embarrassing complications arise which form the ground-work of highly amusing incidents. The Zebra eventually returns safely, and the husbands reach home, anticipating an enthusiastic and loving welcome from their respective spouses. They are woefully out in their reckoning, as their frolic in Paris had been duly noted by a detective retained by one of the wives for the purpose, and a visit from the aeronaut himself clinches the matter. Candid admissions, however, and a promise to avoid dangerous frivolity in future bring about a reconciliation. The first act dragged a little, but thereafter the fun was fast and furious, and the audience rocked with laughter.

Miss Ethel Dane as the apparently artless and demure, but really artful, "Kiki" gave a capital representation of the arch coquette who lures old and young alike to her feet. The Misses Alice Hamilton and Dorothy Whitaker as Lucienne Bocard and Susanne Polignac respectively had much to do with the bustling action of the farce, and their efforts were received with well-merited appreciation. The impudent hypocrisy and "bluff" of the husbands found able exponents in Messrs. Tom Shelford and H. J. Ford, and their acrobatic expertness in reaching cover when danger threatened proved one of the features of the performance. Mr. Frank Bradley as Monsieur Galipaux, a profound believer in the mysteries of the occult, was admirable in every respect, and Messrs. Edward Landor (Chausette), Claud Vernon (Ferdinand Picquet), Walter Dean (Compte de la Beuve), Arthur Shirley (Police Sergeant), and Miss Sinna St. Clair (Juliette) contributed much to the general success of a well-organised company. The first matinee of "The Glad Eye" will be given on Thursday.

"THE EVER OPEN DOOR."

NEW SIMS DRAMA AT ADELPHI.

"There are no things so evil but among them lurks the soul of goodness." These words, put into the mouth of Father Clement, in "The Ever Open Door," produced at the Adelphi Theatre for the first time on Saturday night, are the keynote of the play. Mr. George R. Sims, the well-known writer and dramatist, has written this drama in collaboration with Mr. H. H. Herbert. It is his sixtieth play, and it serves to show that age cannot wither him, nor custom stale. Now, as always, Mr. Sims writes with a purpose. Whether it be in ballad, or whether it be in drama, he is ever seeking to point a moral and adorn a tale. He appeals the better side of our nature. If he presents to us, as he does once more in his latest play, realistic pictures of the seamy side of life, unpleasant characters whose lines are cast in unpleasant places, there is always the other side of the picture, "the soul of goodness in things evil." His latest is a drama that touches the heart, and the great audience that crowded every part of the theatre on Saturday night was carried away by the humanity and the pathos in it.

The new play takes its name from that of a Westminster mission, whose good work is directed by Father Clement (Mr. George Cross). It might have been called "Robbie," and taken its name from the chief character in it. And Robbie is only a little street urchin. As played by Miss Nellie Holroyd on Saturday, he was certainly the central figure in the eyes of the audience. Next to him came the little girl Maggie, played by Miss Vera Huggett. Here we had two delightful child studies, and Miss Vera Remee, the leading lady, and Mr. George Cross, and all the others in the cast were perforce obliged to accept the situation. For Mr. Sims is a dramatist who has a great love for children, and he has taken these two and put them in the centre of the picture. Apart from that fact, the boy and the girl were capitally played. How Robbie, kidnapped by his aristocratic but villainous uncle, and reared in a burglar's home, amid the most sordid surroundings, but remaining uncontaminated by evil associates, is restored in the end to his sorrowing mother, Lady Dereham (who becomes Sister Miriam in Father Clement's mission), it is better not to tell—it would only spoil it. The story is full of human interest. Miriam was played very sympathetically by Miss Vera Remee, and Miss Gwen Dorise was no less successful as Lady Orme, while as the Father of the mission, played on conventional lines, Mr. George Cross had a part that suited him well. Mr. Bert Barton's representation of the amusing Swankie, Dottles, stood out as a fine piece of character work, showing originality and vigour; and Mr. Ronald Riley, as the villainous Lord Dereham, was also well placed. Miss Florrie Fanning played Molly Dundon very creditably, though inclined to overdo the part at times. Miss Fanny Erris was excellent as Sister Lil. Others in the cast included Mr. Carl C. Francis (Jim Dundon, the burglar), Mr. H. Drayton (Tom Slatter), Mr. W. G. Kennedy (Hon. Charles Aveling, M.P.), and Mr. L. Buderick (Sergeant Suthers). All did well.

Any notice which failed to mention the splendid work of Mr. J. S. Mann, the scenic artist, would be incomplete. Some of the scenes were exceptionally fine. This play, as produced by Mr. George Willoughby, should have a good run.

A matinee will be given on Saturday next.

A LABOUR BALLOT.

KALGOORLIE, Saturday.

Some months ago the Goldfields District Council of the Australian Labour Federation appointed a committee to inquire into the manner in which the selection ballot in connection with the North-east Province election had been conducted. The committee drew up a report, which, after referring to several alleged irregularities, concluded: "We are of opinion that the returning officer should have declared the ballot null and void." A copy of the report appeared in the press a few days ago, and as the Federation did not endorse the conclusions arrived at by the committee, a special meeting of the Federation was held to consider the action of the committee in publishing its report without the sanction of the A.L.F. Council. After a warm discussion, a motion was carried, as a result of which five members of the committee who had endorsed the action of the secretary in publishing the report, resigned from the council.

FEDERAL RATING.

MELBOURNE, Saturday.

In the Government Gazette issued to-day, the Minister for Home Affairs, Mr. Archibald, notified that the rates on land in the territory of the seat of government for the next two years would be as follows:—General rate ½d, and lighting rate 3d in the pound on the unimproved value.

"THE ORCHID."

At the Railway Institute, Devonshire-street, on Saturday evening the Railway and Tramway Musical Society added to its list of previous successes Caryll and Monckton's comic opera, "The Orchid."

Miss Jose Pierce performed the role of Hon. Violet Anstruther in a highly creditable manner, a remark which also applied to Miss Ruth Edwards as Caroline Twining, Miss Margaret Barry as Zelie Rumbert, Miss Kathleen Loban as Thisbe, Miss Frances Burke as Countess Anstruther, Miss Gussie Paddle as Lady Warden, and Miss Bertha Morris as Josephine Zaccary. Amongst the male members of the company Mr. Harry Perfect as Meakin was admirable, and caused great mirth whenever he appeared on the stage. He was in the majority of instances capably supported by Messrs. F. Goldacre, W. H. Gibson, H. Poingdestre, J. Bramell, C. Ross, R. Thackway, L. Robson, G. Budd, J. Hancock, and R. M'Donald. A full operatic chorus and orchestra under the direction of Mr. Leo M. Grouse brightly contributed to the enjoyment of the evening. Mrs. Arthur Hunter directed the stage. "The Orchid" will be repeated to-night, Wednesday, Thursday, and Saturday next, and, apart from the excellence of the production, the fact that it is held in aid of the Lord Mayor's Patriotic Fund should cause it to be well patronised.

SEIZED WHEAT.

FARMERS' LOW-PRICE CONTRACTS.

APPEAL FOR STATE HELP.

The Minister for Agriculture, Mr. Ashford, referred on Saturday to the recent seizure of wheat by the Government.

"It has been stated," Mr. Ashford remarked, "that the action of the Government will result in the output of wheat being curtailed. As a matter of fact, the price has been fixed at practically 6d a bushel more than they got during the last three of four years. So I fail to see how it can have such an effect. The price was only fixed from the standpoint of the old wheat season, and probably not more than three or four per cent. of the farmers held any interest in last season's wheat other than for seed purposes. Moreover, with regard to the allegation that an injury will be done if prices are fixed for the new season's wheat, I may say that the department is receiving letters and petitions from farmers asking the Government to take action to invalidate their contracts already entered into to sell at 3/2 and 3/4 per bushel. This shows that, had the Government taken action earlier, probably many farmers would not have agreed to take such low prices from buyers."

THE WILL OF MRS. JULIA LEVY.

By her will, which is dated July 24, 1906, Mrs. Julia Levy, late of Cahors, Macleay-street, widow, appointed her two sons, Harry Solomon Levy, and Septimus Ralph Levy, and her son-in-law George Judah Cohen, her executors and trustees. Testatrix left a large number of minor bequests to relatives, friends, and personal attendants, and she also devised £100 per annum for life to Rebecca Solomon, wife of her late brother, Morris Solomon. She directed her trustees to dispense £400 to the Jewish churches (including the Synagogue), and a like sum among the non-Jewish charities, as they might think fit. The greater part of the residue of her estate the testatrix left to her six sons and four daughters in certain shares set out in the will. Mrs. Levy died in September last, and the value of her estate was sworn for purposes of probate at £20,987.

PARRAMATTA CEMETERY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I crave your indulgence to write once again on this subject. Archdeacon Gunther, quite ignoring my letter which appeared in your issue of October 1, and to which I personally drew his attention during the recent synod, seems in doubt as to whether the strictures of your correspondent, Mr. Cole, on the present state of St. John's cemetery may not, after all, be justifiable. He seems certain, however, that Mr. Cole's criticisms could not have been justifiable at the close of his (Archdeacon Gunther's) incumbency of Parramatta some four years ago. The inference by implication is, I fear, obvious. As to the comparative condition of the cemetery then and now, I wish to set all doubts at rest. If Archdeacon Gunther had asked me, or anyone in Parramatta competent to reply, or had visited the cemetery before writing his letter, he would have been assured that this parochial property is in the same condition (to say the least) of care and repair as when he left this parish, and as it had been for several years previous to his departure. If it was satisfactory then it is satisfactory now. During the first year of my incumbency the trustees spent more money on the care of the place than had been spent in the whole three preceding years; and for the last two years the average annual expenditure on cleaning, etc., has been considerably over the expenditure in the years immediately preceding my advent.

Mr. Bardsley, sanitary inspector to the municipal council of Parramatta for the last ten years, and whose duties call for his presence in the cemetery fairly frequently, informs me that the condition of the cemetery is as good as ever it was—"in fact, better."

As to the tomb of Samuel Marsden, of honoured memory, your correspondents seem unaware that it was only a few months ago put in thorough repair by, I understand, members of his family. But, apart from this, I personally never considered the cemetery to be in the condition in which I thought it ought to be, and I am thankful to say that I and my co-trustees are now in a position to realise, to some extent at any rate, our ideals for this last resting place of the illustrious dead. I am, etc., S. M. JOHNSTONE, Rector of Parramatta.

Parramatta, Oct. 10.

BAD BREAKING OUT ON NECK.

10 Lackey-street, St. Peters, N.S.W.—"For several months I had a very bad breaking out of sores, which formed large scabs on my neck. The sores and scabs were very painful, also itching; in fact, the itching was so great that I could hardly keep my hand away from the scabs. I had tried various so-called cures but without relief, when, remembering what my friends had told me of Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, I got some Cuticura Ointment, and from the first application I derived relief, and after applying it as directed, before going to bed, I am thankful to say that the scabs completely disappeared within two months. The Cuticura Ointment is a cure for anything of that kind, also I have found it useful for the relief of insect bites, cuts, and wounds." (Signed) George James Rex, February, 1913.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold throughout the world, a sample of each, with 32-page Skin Book, will be mailed free on application to R. Towns and Co., Dept. T., Sydney, N.S.W.—Advt.

WASTE OF TIMBER.

AN EXPERT'S OPINION.

During the last few years there has been a general agreement on the part of those interested as to the enormous waste of timber that has taken place in this country. It is still going on for that matter, and comparatively little has been done to improve the situation, serious as it is. Amongst those who have noticed the woeful waste of timber in this State is Mr. D. E. Hutchins, F.R.G.S., who came to Australia with the British scientists, and recently made an inspection of the forests of Western Australia, South Australia, Queensland, and New South Wales. In the course of an interview Mr. Hutchins said he was an Indian forest man, with 26 years forest work in South Africa, where he had been planting Australian trees by the million. His object was to see those trees in their own homes. He intends after leaving Sydney to visit Victoria, Tasmania, and New Zealand, and will then proceed home, via California. His remarks on our methods cannot be considered flattering, but they should receive the attention of the authorities.

"It may be said generally," said Mr. Hutchins, "that the position of forestry in Australia is much where it was in South Africa a quarter of a century ago; and it may interest Australians to know what South Africa has been doing and what are the impressions of a South African forester. When I went to South Africa in 1883 the forests were being put in order by an eminent French forester. The result now is that instead of South Africa having to spend one and a quarter million yearly for imported timber, the greater portion is being produced at home. Australia is spending about £10,000 a day for imported soft woods, and no serious steps have yet been taken to produce that timber in the country. South African experience shows that it is a mere matter of organisation for Australia to do as South Africa has done. It is hardly a business matter to put aside all other considerations and let the forest question remain in abeyance, as is being done in Australia. There are three and a half millions sterling going out of the country yearly, and this figure is rapidly increasing. It will soon be five millions. It will be from 40 to 60 years before a good supply of soft woods can be produced in the country, even supposing pine and other soft wood plantations were started at once. In addition to soft woods there is an amount of loss than can only be guessed at in the senseless destruction of hardwoods which has been going on. South Africa wants sleepers until her own timber matures, but the supply of ironbark in Australia is already running short. It is the same with that grand Australian timber, the red cedar. The waste of her natural resources of hardwood is indescribable.

"These figures," continued Mr. Hutchins, "may well give rise to reflection apart from the various advantages offering in the country from State forestry. Australia to-day cannot afford to lose what it stands to lose in postponing the full adoption of State forestry. It is not a difficult matter to form pine plantations. In South Africa the ground is ploughed, and the seed sown by the ton, the average being for the last few years 25 tons of pine tree seeds per year. It is not difficult to ensure the natural regeneration of the hardwood forests. I have lately seen in New South Wales large areas which could be turned at once into fully stocked hardwood forests—much better stocked, in fact, than the old forests, by the simple process of first burning off, then protecting the undergrowth from fire and cattle, and afterwards, when the undergrowth has grown up, letting cattle in to keep down the herbage." Mr. Hutchins pointed out that Japan had put her forests in order. She began doing so as soon as she became civilised. Belgium took her forests in hand about the same time, and every civilised country except Britain is in the same position. South Africa spent a million pounds sterling on forestry between 1882 and 1903, and is now spending about double the forest revenue. New South Wales has been spending between a third and a half of her forest revenue, and has to-day a forest surplus of half a million pounds sterling. "That half a million," concluded Mr. Hutchins, "is going to be the dearest loan New South Wales has ever negotiated."

DAIRY SCIENCE SCHOOL.

The Department of Agriculture announces that a Dairy Science School will be held at Murwillumbah from 26th to 31st inst. inclusive, for the instruction of factory managers and assistants in cream grading and testing. It is mentioned that this is to be the last of the cream-grading schools to be held by the Department this year, hence factory managers and employees who have not attended previous schools should make a point of joining the Murwillumbah school.

SUCCESSFUL PARADE.

The Hound and Gun Dog Club of New South Wales held its first parade at the Show Ground on Saturday afternoon. There was a fair attendance. The general quality of the exhibits was excellent. One of the best dogs on the ground was Dr. Weston's English Setter, Royal Belton. The winning foxhounds, pointers, spaniels, and Borzois were also above the average.

Mr. Clarence Gorman (Hardie and Gorman) opened the show. He also sold by auction an English setter puppy, Myola Grand Slam, presented by Mr. H. Ekin for the benefit of the Patriotic Fund. It realised £5, and the buyer generously gave back the puppy, which was resold for £3.

The judges were Mr. F. Bridgement, foxhounds, harriers, and cocker spaniels; Mr. A. Lofberg, deerhounds and beagles; Mr. C. S. Turner, the other breeds. The show was excellently managed by the hon. secretary, Mrs. E. M. Hope. The awards were:—

DISTRICT ITEMS.

COOMA.—Shearing has commenced in many parts of the Cooma district. Favoured by fine weather, sheep-owners expect a good clean clip this season. There is a good supply of grass in the district for stock, which are in excellent condition. Numbers of starving sheep are coming from Hay and Jerilderie.

DUNGOG.—At a meeting of the committee of the Dungog A. and H. Association, Mr. W. Bennett was elected president, vice Mr. J. Abbott, resigned. Mr. R. Moylan was elected to the position of vice-president, rendered vacant by the appointment of Mr. Bennett as president.

FOREST REEFS.—Stock inspectors report that most of the country is looking well; in spite of the fact that about Carcoar the rainfall has been somewhat patchy. These places are looking dry, feed is scarce, and some stocks are beginning to look poor, while the majority keep in good condition. Rain would be welcome. Rabbits are fairly numerous, and do not appear to be taking the poison, though much fumigating is showing successful results. Lambing is showing a good percentage, and sheep appear to be in sound condition, with long wool of good staple. A good clip should result.

MOSS VALE.—The B.D.A.H. and I. Society held their spring sports and horse parade on Wednesday, on the society's grounds, under favourable weather conditions. The parade consisted of a very good class of draughts, blood horses, trotters, and ponies. The majority received certificates. Mr. S. Hordern was represented by Westfield, a very fine type of Clydesdale, and Mr. J. Yeo by his imported Exmoor pony, Dennington Court.

Half the profits of the sports are to be given to the war fund. Mr. F. H. Throsby presented a fat sheep for a guessing competition, Messrs. Holt, Arnott, and Smith guessing the weight, 147½lb. The sheep was afterwards sold by auction for the Red Cross Fund, and realised £11 7s.

JUNEE.—Each day adds to the number of crops on which stock have been turned to graze. Some parts of this district have had under six inches of rain since January 1. Junee Pastoral and Agricultural Show was set down for the first week in September, but has now been abandoned.

FLOWER SHOW.

NYNGAN, Friday.

The annual flower show in aid of the building fund of St. Paul's Church of England, Nyngan, was opened at the Town Hall on Tuesday evening, and was continued on Wednesday night. Large crowds attended each evening. The hall looked very pretty with its many gaily decorated stalls, and the floral exhibits which were arranged on a long stand down the centre of the hall were worth going a long way to see. The show throughout was a great success, and it is expected that the profits will exceed those of previous years.

THE CROPS.

ALBURY.—Vineyard prospects are not encouraging. The late black frosts absolutely destroyed the fruit on the early varieties, the young fruit shoots presenting the appearance of having been burnt off. The later kinds, which are more numerous and are so far uninjured. The condition of the soil, however, is not such as to warrant the anticipation of a good yield. The subsoil has not had a good soaking for at least three years. Such a condition in spring is unusual, if not unprecedented. Growers complain of difficulty in obtaining resistant stocks to replace the vines affected by phylloxera. Orchards also have suffered severely. Apricots, walnuts, and early plums have been among the trees more seriously affected.

MILLTHORPE.—At present the district is feeling the want of rain. The paucity of the rainfall during the past month, combined with the hot sultry weather experienced for the past few weeks, is having a marked effect on the crops. This in itself would be severe enough, but added to this is the severity of several frosts that have been experienced. Many crops have been severely cut, although many have escaped. A good fall of rain at the present juncture would save the position, although it is hard to estimate if a total recovery would result. The only pleasing feature is that many crops have escaped the severity of the frosts.

PASTURE BOARDS.

NARRANDERA.—A meeting of the Narrandera P.P. Board was held on Wednesday. A notification from the Department of Lands that it has been decided to revoke an area of 665 acres on T.S.R. 24,577, parish of Bundidgerry, was received. The revocation of the T.S.R. over this area would cancel the only travelling stock reserve of any consequence between Narrandera and Berrembed, which is used by thousands of travelling stock annually. A deputation, consisting of the chairman and two other members of the board was appointed to protest to the Minister against the revocation.

It was decided to obtain Ministerial sanction to the destruction by the board of noxious animals on unoccupied Crown land at Boree Creek, Whitton Ferry, Morundah, and near Narrandera.

They have three week's provisions.

A Robe & Costume Dispersal
Commences at Snow's this morning

"When friend deals with friend let the bargain be well penned—that they may continue friends," is the good advice of Benjamin Franklin.

And in telling you how it comes about that Snow's are holding a Robe and Costume "Dispersal," we wish — as between friend and friend—the facts to be clearly penned.

Two & sometimes Three Robes for the Usual Price of One.

It is almost unbelievable. Yet it is true. Many of these Robes, which are beautiful imported goods, were intended to sell for twice and even three times the prices now placed on them by Snow's.

Robes in Silk Eoliennes,
Robes in Crepe de Chines,
Robes in Light-weight Wool Delaines,
Robes in Satin Charmeuse and Paillettes,
Robes in every Fine Summer Material.

Trimmed with Floral Silks, and in scores of different effects, and prices are only 14/11, 15/6, 16/9, 18/6, 22/6, 27/6, 29/11 upwards. NEW! New! New!! All are new. And here are some of the new fashion features you may find in them. Straight Basques and Tunics, Irregular yokes, folded sashes, new Medieval effects, gathered up at sides, styles reminiscent of the Eighties, and in rich shades that Summer will hail as the most fashionable.

Dispersal of Evening Frocks.

Here is a new Tunic Evening Frock that was made to sell at 4 Guineas. The Dispersal prices are only 39/6. It is in a soft shade of Maize Satin Charmeuse, has Floral Silk Crepe, top finished with Royal Blue; Sleeves carry real Silk Malines Lace.
Another is a little Dinner Frock in Pale Pink Crepe-de-Chine that was £2/15/, and is now 21/.

Smart Women's Costumes, 35/- and 42/- Values. 29/11 and 37/6 in the Dispersal.

GROUP 1: Includes Sponge Ratines and Frise Cloth Coat and Skirt suits. These have Basque Coatees and Magyar tops. Skirts are very smart. Regular 35/ values. DISPERSAL PRICE, 29/11.
GROUP 2: Comprises Check Ratines. Frises with Roman striped Sponge Collars and Sashes. There are hardly two alike. Former prices were from 42/, 45/, 47/6, to 49/6. DISPERSAL PRICE, 37/6.

Among the Lower-Priced Summer Robes.

JUST THE KIND OF DRESSES EVERY WOMAN NEEDS for morning and afternoon wear at home, on a summer day's outing—in fact, wherever a fresh, dainty, inexpensive Dress is appropriate. Many different Summer materials in white and lovely colours.
Practical Tub Dresses, yet all with some pretty trimming touch—every one a smart, new style. Think of it.
Just two words more—BE EARLY.
Pompadour Crepe Robes—to mention one table—are marked 7/3, 7/6, and 7/9.
Another lot includes the finer quality Robes in Pompadour Crepons. Regularly 12/6 values. DISPERSAL PRICE, 9/11.
And still others in plain and striped Crepes at 8/11, and in Pique Cords at 8/6. REGULARLY WORTH 10/6.
Also Pompadour Cotton Voile Robes in all shades. Frocks worth much more than the prices would indicate—14/11 and 15/9. One smart little style has flared Skirt. The Dispersal Price is 18/6.
Better quality Pompadour Cotton Voile Robes, trimmed with White Chiffon Organdie Collars and Cuffs, with Val. introductions, 29/6 and 32/6.

Beauty has not Saved the Models Being Retagged.

A very beautiful 13-Guinea model is, for instance, now £9/9/. It is of Cherry shade, French Silk Crepe, in Tunic style, giving an unusual 3-piece costume effect that is quite chic. Trimmings consist of Malines Lace and Silk and Tartan placed to perfection.
Model Race Coats in French Moire Glace, showing the new hip flare and long waist. Silk lined. Formerly 8½ Guineas. Dispersal Price, £6/6/.
Another, in Black and Copper, shows the new hip sash effect, £6/6, instead of £8/8/.

More Imported Evening Frocks.

Snow's Prices Reduced for Dispersal.

47/6, 49/11, and 55/ Evening Frocks. Come down to Dispersal Price, 42/.
70/ Evening Dresses, now 50/.
£6/6/ Dinner and Theatre Gowns for £5/5/.
That gives you a quick idea how generous the reductions are. The woman who has a new Evening Frock in mind has an opportunity of acquiring a treasure.
Beautiful Frocks in conception and material, but further than that we can scarcely give any details, because all are different.

Without being able to explain exactly why, the wholesale mantle trade has been anything but bright of late. Perhaps retailers curtailed their orders; perhaps customers have bought too "cannily." In any case the salesmen of one importer were "not earning their salt." This fact brought him to us prepared to negotiate. As as result—

280 of the Finest Robes, Mostly of Fine Silks, changed from his hands to ours in return for Cash.

In other quarters we have been busy for weeks patiently picking the best Robes and Costumes out of surplus stocks here, there, and everywhere.

Finally, in order that this "dispersal" may have interest enough in money savings for everybody,

Prices on several hundreds of Snow's own earlier purchases have been Liberally Reduced.

Any suggestion that this is a "Fake" Bargain scheme may be instantly dispelled by examination of the Robes and Costumes (and a few other garments) in the windows this day.

And please note: The word "Sale" is used here only twice a year, when we make something better in the way of Bargains than even this "Dispersal" holds—EVER SO GOOD AS IT PROMISES TO BE.

Little Women & Misses share in Dispersal Values.

The woman of shorter stature who fails to find suitable frocks in the main assortments is advised to visit Snow's specialty shop of Maids' Wear—adjoining the Underwear section—where full assortments of very smart Frocks are carried. In line with the bigger showroom, Dispersal prices have been made for this occasion.

And good things are coming in all the time.

V.A.T.C. SPRING MEETING.

ANNA CARLOVNA WINS CAULFIELD STAKES.

RATHLEA TOORAK HANDICAP.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

The weather was dull and cold for the first day of the V.A.T.C. Spring Meeting. The attendance did not look as good as former years. The State Governor and Lady Stanley were amongst those present.

The Iolo Welter attracted 27 runners. Haarlem was in most demand, others in the betting including Grand Charm, Degama, and Yeneda. Peck o' Maut, Haarlem, and Coolagunyah were the leaders from the start. Coolagunyah took command at the bottom of the straight, and won by three lengths from the outsider Hushmoney, who just beat Apiarist for second place. Haarlem was the nearest of the others.

Turover, who had been overlooked at the time official forfeits became due, was withdrawn from the Debutante Stakes, leaving 15 to go to the post. Two, who went out a strong favourite, got out smartly, and led to the home turn. Celosia was just behind him, and ran to the front entering the straight, and Red Signal put in a good run two mile distance, but Celosia struggled on, and won by half a head. Duverney, who finished well, was three-quarters of a length away. Air Malt, the Sydney representative, who was well backed, was too slow on her legs to have a chance. Celosia is owned by Mr. George Woodford, chairman of the V.A.T.C.

Though there were only five starters for the Caulfield Stakes, the event looked open. Eugulus was not in the betting, but the other four were well backed. Anna Carlovna went out favourite, with Uncle Sam, Philio, and Alcoonner next in demand. Philio made the pace, with Anna Carlovna lying next, about three lengths away. Anna Carlovna ran up to Philio at the straight, and immediately took command. Uncle Sam put in a good run from the distance, but could never get up, and Anna Carlovna won easily by three-quarters of a length. Alcoonner did not run nearly as well as in the October Stakes at Flemington, and was the last to finish. Anna Carlovna was beaten by Alcoonner in that event, but she was unlucky, as she experienced a very bad run. Anna Carlovna is in the Caulfield Cup at 8st 2lb. Uncle Sam is in the same event at 8st 7lb.

The Ringwood Steeplechase brought out eight runners, with Big Bob in most demand. Sapper and Altar Boy also were well backed. Altar Boy and Big Bob fell. Yalok beat Sapper by a length and a half. Money Order was a moderate third. Yalok started at an outside price.

There was a field of eight for the Caulfield Guineas, and Traquette was always favourite. She touched 5 to 4 on at one time, but eventually went out at even money. Blague was next in demand at 3 to 1; while Newberry had friends at 5 to 1. Long prices were available about the others. Backers did not get a run with Traquette. She had the berth on the inside, and as the barrier rose she whipped around and unseated her rider, G. Lambert. Burrabadeen made a good deal of the running, but at the distance Blague got to the front and appeared to be winning easily. Burrabadeen, however, hung on, and finishing remarkably well was only beaten by half a length. Newberry was third, and Baverstock beat the others. Blague was bred by his owner, Mr. S. A. Rawdon," who purchased the dam (carrying Blague) at the break up of the Bonnyvale Stud for 160 guineas. He is in the Caulfield Cup at 6st 9lb, V.R.C. Derby, and Melbourne Cup, at 6st 9lb.

The whole of the 12 acceptors for the Toorak Handicap went to the post. There has not been a smaller field for the event since True Scot beat 10 others in 1907. For a long time Royal Laddie and Gold Brew were in equal demand at 4 to 1, but it was rumoured that Royal Laddie was suffering somewhat from the effects of his trip over from Sydney, and he receded to 6 to 1, only to firm again at barrier rise to 5 to 1. Gold Brew in the meantime shortened to 5 to 2, at which price he started. Iownit was a strong tip, and there was plenty of support forthcoming for Tadanga, William of Orange, Golden Wire, and Mintstone. Gold Brew was always in a good position, and was in the lead at the bottom of the straight. A few strides past the distance, however, Golden Wire headed him. Gold Brew came out, and there appeared to be a little interference. Golden Wire was in front at the half-distance, but at that point Rathlea on the outside, threw out a strong challenge, and quickly assuming command won by a length and a half. Gold Brew finished third, while William of Orange and Royal Laddie were the nearest of the others. Odds of 20 to 1 were laid against Rathlea, and at the finish 16 to 1 was easily obtainable. He is trained for Mr. Norman Falkiner (owner of Red Signal) by C. Wheeler. Had Rathlea not run such a disappointing race in the A.J.C. Epsom Handicap he would have been at a much shorter price. He realised 240 guineas when sold as a yearling in Sydney. A penalty of 7lb brings Rathlea's Caulfield Cup weight up to 8st 8lb, and a penalty of 10lb increases his Melbourne Cup weight to 8st 6lb. Iownit made a poor show, but he was interfered with more than once in the course of the race. Details:—

Royal Laddie was first away, followed by Tadanga, Avonwort being last to move. After going half a furlong Royal Laddie still led from Gold Brew, Bal Blair, Rathlea, Mintstone, Avonwort still being last. Along the back Gold Brew took command from Maltravers, Royal Laddie, Tadanga, Bal Blair, Rathlea, Golden Wire, and Avonwort. At the far turn the positions were unaltered, and along the railway side Maltravers still kept the lead, being just in front of Gold Brew, Mintstone, Tadanga, Royal Laddie, and Golden Wire, Kirtle being last. Coming round the turn Gold Brew was leading, followed by Mintstone and Golden Wire, then coming Royal Laddie and Tadanga. Into the straight the same positions were maintained. At the distance Golden Wire headed Gold Brew, but near the half distance Rathlea ran to the front and won by a length and a half from Golden Wire, who beat Gold Brew by a length. William of Orange was fourth, Royal Laddie, Tadanga, Mintstone, and Iownit next, and Bal Blair last. Time, 1m 40½s.

NOTES ON THE RACING.

The Flying Squadron's racing was good throughout, as not only were the heats and final well contested, but they were productive of fine finishes.

H. C. Press created a surprise by winning the first heat. After being taken well out of her course by the outward bound liner Indarra, she was 50s behind the leading boat, Desdemona, at Taylor Bay, but she did well on the work across to Shark Island, where she was a close second to Mona. It was a great race home between Press, Desdemona, and Mona, and they crossed the line in this order, 19s covering the three.

Thus, while H. C. Press and Desdemona did best off the wind, Mona sailed better than both of them on the work from Taylor Bay to Shark Island; in fact, her performance over this part of the course was excellent.

Of the others in this heat, Seaf and Mississippi were also interfered with by the Indarra. Pastime carried away her spinnaker boom racing to the Taylor Bay mark, nearing which, by the way, Desdemona and H. C. Press cut some nasty capers with their spinnakers in the fresh breeze. Australian beat Nimrod, but neither had a chance against the longmarkers on the day.

The second heat enabled Boronia to establish that in a fresh breeze at any rate she will have to be reckoned with, for, although third last boat at Taylor Bay, she worked through into second place on the beat across stream, and afterwards showed the way home, thus winning her first prize.

Like Boronia, Sydney sailed a good boat on the work across. She was first round Shark Island, but the for'ard hands got her big ballooner overboard, which pulled her up dead. But for this incident she must have gone very close to beating Boronia for first place.

The backmarkers in this heat did better than those of the first, and after a close race Arline beat Kismet for third, both these boats having sailed well on a wind.

The final looked very open, but racing to Taylor Bay the chances of Desdemona and H. C. Press looked the rosiest. They were both disputing the lead as they hauled a wind at the Taylor Bay mark, the order of the others being Blanche, Sydney, Mona, Advance, Arline, Golding, Kismet, and Boronia. The lastnamed did not carry a small spinnaker like the others, and had thus been passed by Kismet.

The wind had now freshened considerably, and working to Shark Island Desdemona, Mona, and Advance stood back towards Bradley's Head, while the others worked more directly for the island. Sydney sailed a good boat, and Boronia not only held a fine wind but stood up to the fresh breeze like a ship. Kismet, however, was doing best of the fleet, and a most interesting contest resulted in the Dunn-built boat taking the lead from Sydney and Desdemona close to Shark Island.

Easing away from the buoy here, Kismet led by 13s from Desdemona, with Arline, Sydney, H. C. Press, Boronia, Mona, Advance, Golding, and Blanche following. Kismet now appeared to have the race in hand, but the breeze eased off a good deal, and Dunn made the mistake of not keeping high enough up racing to the finish, with the result that Desdemona and Sydney, to windward of her, carried the breeze through, and after a very close race beat her home. H. C. Press improved her position, too, but could not catch Kismet, Boronia doing best of the others. Desdemona thus turned what looked like defeat for her at Shark Island into a popular victory.

THE FALL OF ANTWERP.

The fall of Antwerp, though from our cables during the last few days it was not unexpected, is a fresh and unwelcome reminder of the strength of the German army in certain of its departments. Antwerp was the temporary capital of Belgium. It was reputed to be the strongest fortified town in the world next to Paris, and was commanded by an acknowledged master of the art of defence. It was protected for some days at least by the Belgian army, who were joined by a force of British bluejackets. Yet its downfall has been accomplished without, as far as we can gather, substantially reducing the strength of either of the main German armies. Such a feat in any of the earlier European wars would have been regarded as the crowning achievement of a campaign, as casting some kind of slur on the city which had capitulated after so short a siege. To-day no one can doubt but that the Belgian generals at once consulted the best interest of the Allies, and maintained their reputation for bravery in the face of great numbers and superior weapons. The war has shown already that the Germans possess a siege gun of greater destructive power than anything that has been either known or anticipated. Aided by an efficient system of spies, it gave the Germans both Liege and Namur. Once the weak spot in these fortresses became known they could be battered to pieces without being able to offer a reply. Antwerp was doomed as soon as the German artillery gained control of the city. To have refused to surrender would have been to expose the inhabitants to a bombardment which could only end in one way, and would have involved numbers of non-combatants in starvation and misery. The wretched inhabitants have in many cases suffered the last extremity of destitution through the determination of their country to fight for its liberty. It was well that the civil authorities did nothing to prolong a resistance which could not aid the national cause, and must have ensured the destruction of one of the finest cities in Europe.

The capture of a city which had been declared to be impregnable, and was defended with the assistance of a British force, will be acclaimed in Germany as a final answer to all the prophets. Antwerp, like Brussels, will give the German soldiers an opportunity for displaying that exultation which, natural enough in itself, seems to expose all the most repulsive features of the national character—the character which has drawn forth the protest of every nation in arms against it. Such revulsion of feeling will no doubt be of the greatest value to an Empire which has been disappointed in its first ambition, and which now sees both its armies on the defensive. Materially, the fall of Antwerp was desired because it will protect the German armies on their lines of communication. While that ring of forts remained intact a comparatively small body of men could harass the German transport system or embarrass the supply of reinforcements or the path of an enemy in retreat. Since the Belgian army is safe and the garrison has escaped the army of occupation will still be exposed to attack. But, undoubtedly, the German system will be able to move with much greater facility than before, and more men will be available to join the armies on either frontier. But while we admit that the fall of Antwerp is an event of importance, we cannot see how, by any process of reasoning, it can be supposed to change the fortunes of the war. The war will be decided by the armies on the two frontiers, and the number of Germans now free to join them can make no appreciable difference. The thought that Germans are now in control of one of the first ports in Europe must, however, bring home to all British subjects how much the Empire has at stake in this war. We may believe that the Kaiser has changed his original plan of attacking the French in their own country, or even of smashing the French armies before he meets the Russians. But it is clear that part of his plan is the conquest and occupation of Belgium. It is equally clear that to carry out such a plan he will have to exhaust the British Empire "to the last man and the last farthing." At any time we should be bound to resist such a plan by every obligation of honour and of self-interest. To-day we have an especial motive in the sufferings of a brave and loyal people. The Australian Parliament has already recognised our obligation by a gift of money, but the real gift of the people, the gift which they can least spare, will be the services of the expeditionary force. The work of driving the enemy from the soil of a country which they have defiled, and of attacking them within their own borders will be long and arduous. For that reason the soldiers who are to undertake it need all the training that skilled officers can give them. But it is a work which will entitle them to the gratitude of all free peoples, and will compensate them for the weariness and the disappointments of their long but necessary preparation.

WAR AND THE TARIFF.

The newly-formed Federal Government proposes to amend the tariff so as "to promote the establishment of new Australian industries and further develop those already established." Measures, we are told, will also be introduced "to promote the production and manufacture of raw materials for which no market is now open, and to secure new markets for the manufactured goods of Australia." Furthermore, legislation is promised, probably upon the lines of the English Act, to suspend or annul patents held by "enemy" subjects. All these proposals indicate that the existence of a state of war has, in the opinion of those who have framed the Government programmes, materially altered our economic position. It may be freely admitted that the existing tariff urgently calls for amendment. It is neither one thing nor another. To the avowed protectionist it yields but little satisfaction; to the freetrader, it is all that is bad: while, even from the point of view of the business man who accommodates his industry as well as he is able to the exigencies of politics, it seems wholly illogical.

Customs tariffs usually have some underlying principle which their advocates keep in view, though they can scarcely ever completely live up to them. One theory of which we are hearing little in these days is that a tariff should set out to protect "infant industries" which, while in their swaddling clothes, are unable to hold their own with the more mature industries of competing countries lying beyond the tariff wall. The objective of the legislator who adopted this view was the well-being of the manufacturer. If he were placed in a sheltered position he could thrive, and in thriving could give plenty of employment. Some whose protectionist principles were of this order looked for the day to arrive in which the industry, having passed through the nursery stages, would no longer need a high tariff to sustain it, so that duties might eventually be reduced. But this principle soon gave way to another which took a stronger hold upon popular imagination. It rested upon the basis of protection for our workers against cheap labour overseas. Those who urged this view were never tired of telling us of the Chinaman who was content to live on a few handfuls of rice, and work from daylight to dark, of the industrious German, whose sole sustenance consisted of a sausage or two made of horseflesh, or of the Italian peasant who ate macaroni varied with a few raisins and olive oil. In this case it was not the manufacturer who had to be cared for—he was only incidental—it was his workmen. But it was found in practice that it was easy to protect the manufacturer and make him wealthy without very materially benefiting his men. The tariff seemed to the Labour view more designed to assist him than them. This brought in its train still another theory, the new protection doctrine, the underlying principle of which was that the whole of the benefit that was to accrue from the tariff must find its way into the pockets of the workers, and not of those who employed them. Though the attempts to legislate along these lines, as in the harvester excise case, failed on constitutional grounds, in effect this is the principle that has survived to-day, and it has met with a certain element of success through the activities of wages boards, Arbitration Court awards, and so forth. The objection to the system has been that it has tended to bring about price understandings among employers, these, for very self-protection sake, being forced to pass portion of their increased costs on to the public. And as the workers are a not unimportant section of the consuming public, their position has only been dubiously benefited by the change. Now the war has suddenly and effectively modified all this. It has endangered the continued existence of the wages board system, and has made it necessary for us to seek out another theory for tariff development.

If we are to have a protective tariff in Australia as portion of our settled policy, and this seems certain, then we might as well have a tariff that does something worth while. Though the "infant industry" theory may still be urged by some, it affords an inadequate basis upon which to act. We have also passed beyond the days when there was any practical usefulness in the theory that our workers must be protected against the cheap labour of other lands. That is everywhere admitted. The new protection doctrine cannot stand the strain of war conditions, though it has this much to commend it in theory, that it rests on the basis of the welfare of the many instead of the aggrandisement of the few. It is better for a community that it should have a contented populace than a few multi-millionaires. A new principle might now be conveniently adopted having as its basis the need for solidifying our national existence. There are some few industries which for us are all important. Australia is far removed from the rest of the world. Many articles that are quite essential to her well-being are imported from markets many thousands of miles distant. The war has warned us that were sea communication effectively interrupted we should be helpless. Had Germany only had a few more Emdens, a few more Scharnhorsts, and Gneisenaus on the high seas, our weakness would have been pitiable. Our pastoralists would then have been unable to get packages for their wool, our wheat-growers sacks for their grain, our fields would have gone out of cultivation for want of ploughs, our armed forces would have lacked rifles and ammunition, those who manned our forts would soon have realised that every shot they fired brought them nearer to their last round. Though we have more raw wool than any other country, were the seas unsafe for our commerce we could not clothe ourselves with our own staple. Supplies of cotton goods, too, would soon run out. If, then, the tariff is to be amended, it should take particular account of these things. Industries that spell national existence should receive first consideration. The tariff should in this emergency be framed for the benefit of the country as a whole, not for that of any section, no matter how influential.

LAUNCH WRECKED.

PLIGHT OF CREW.

MARYBOROUGH, Sunday.

Further details with regard to the wreck of the motor launch Orient show that the vessel had a rough passage after leaving Sydney, and had to make frequent stoppages. On Friday morning last a gale commenced to blow. It took the little vessel 12 hours to steam to Wide Bay, 24 miles, where the crew tried to hang on in the shelter of the point. At 3 in the morning, being tired out, the three men on board turned in to sleep. At about 4 o'clock C. S. Kaussman stated he was awakened by a loud bang, and found they were right in the surf. He had just time to call the other two men when the boat heeled over. They were washed ashore. All the clothes the three men had between them were a singlet and a suit of pyjamas, having stripped in the water. They waited until daylight, and then started to walk to Double Island Point lighthouse. The engineer, Kydd, was too ill to continue after covering four miles of the journey, and the mate, Sellaeg, remained with him while the skipper pushed on to the lighthouse. Assistance was sent out to the engineer and the mate, and they were brought to the lighthouse.

PERSONAL.

The Rev. R. B. S. Hammond left Sydney by the Marama on Saturday for New Zealand in connection with the forthcoming prohibition campaign in that country.

Dr. G. C. Creelman, director of the Guelph Agricultural College in Ontario, Canada, who has just completed a tour of New Zealand and the Commonwealth, leaves by the Inaba Maru to-day for Japan.

Captain Mackintosh, who is to command the Australian section of Sir Ernest Shackleton's expedition, will leave in a few days' time for Hobart, where the Aurora is lying. He will return to Sydney about the end of the month.

The death of Mr. John A. B. Cahill, a well-known Sydney solicitor, occurred at his residence at Waverley on Thursday last. The deceased appeared in court on the preceding Monday, and although his health had been indifferent for some time past the end was unexpected.

DEATH OF MR. E. C. BATT.

Mr. Edmund Compton Batt, principal of the firm of Messrs. Batt, Rodd, and Purves, auctioneers, died on Friday at his residence, Felixstowe, Strathfield. Mr. Batt was in his 72nd year. His remains were interred on Saturday afternoon in the Church of England cemetery, Gore Hill.

Mr. Batt, who was in his 72nd year, was born at Ventnor, Isle of Wight, and was educated by his uncle, Dr. Batt, a renowned pedagogue of that time, at Schifnell, Somersetshire, England. Later he underwent a course of study at Cambridge University to qualify for examination for the Indian Civil Service. In this there were 43 candidates for three vacancies. He was unsuccessful by a narrow margin, and he came to Australia in 1874 as manager for the Ramornie Meat Works, Clarence River. In 1877, in conjunction with Mr. Barnstaple Rodd, he established the present business of real estate agents and auctioneers at 88 Pitt-street, which was then a little, old cottage, trespassing some feet upon the footway. Later Mr. J. M. Purves joined the firm. Mr. Batt was associated with many public movements, notably the Bulli Colliery Disaster Fund, of which he was one of the trustees. He was twice married, and is survived by his widow and two daughters.

Amongst those present at the graveside at Gore Hill Cemetery were Messrs. W. Bradford (son-in-law), J. and H. Bradford (grandsons), Major J. M. Purves, and many members of the firm of Batt, Rodd, and Purves, Ltd., including Messrs. J. Ryder, J. D. Ryan, H. Burton, P. Holmes, and Bruce Ray, together with Messrs. Fred Curtis, A. E. Jaques, J. Upward, Henry Gorman, Alec Greig, J. G. Mills, Robert Hardie, F. King (Hardie and Gorman Propy., Ltd.), W. Wiley (city assessor), R. Stanton (Stanton and Son, Ltd.), A. Royle (C. J. Royle and Co.), Arthur Middle, Wm. M'Walker (Walker Bros.), W. T. Gray, David Mitchell, Herbert Clark (Raine and Horne), C. Laylor, Sidney Raper, D. Brownhill, J. Purves, and A. Henwood.

INTERNATIONAL TELEGRAMS.

METHOD OF COUNTING.

The postal authorities notify that it has been approved to adopt forthwith, until further notice, the following new method of counting international telegrams as proposed by the London Post Office. All the letters and figures of the words in the address, text, and signature, will be counted together. Each figure will be counted as two letters, and the total number of letters so obtained will be divided by 10 to arrive at the number of chargeable words. Thus a message containing 61 letters would be counted and charged for as a message of seven words. This method of counting applies to full rate messages exchanged between the Commonwealth and the United Kingdom, South Africa, India, Egypt, New Zealand, Suva, and Fanning Island.

OUR TROOPS.

AWAITING ORDERS.

THE LIGHT HORSE.

COUNTRY APPLICANTS.

The Army Reservists, camped at Long Bay, and the Army Service Corps, who have been attached to the Kensington camp, were to have been transferred to Liverpool on Saturday. It is, however, still undecided as to what will be done with them and with the infantry.

Colonel Wallack, C.B., the State Commandant, would send the four battalions of infantry to Liverpool if he could feel any degree of security as to the time limit, but, as matters stand, it is considered advisable to keep the men on the site which has been offered, not far adjacent from the Kensington Racecourse.

Recruiting was continued at the Barracks on Saturday, when about 50 applicants, mostly from the country, had their names registered. They were practically all wiry, youthful horsemen, and Lieutenant-Colonel Antill, the enrolling officer, sent them to the Light Horse. This Light Horse has still many vacancies, but it is not intended to fill them with any but those specially qualified, by reason of their bush experience. In the meantime those who come forward from the country who are not thus specially fitted will be sent to the infantry, or, if considered suitable, will be enlisted for field hospital work under the Army Medical Corps. It is expected that after this week further encouragement will be given to the police in the country to send down to Sydney suitable applicants. The work the police has already done has been most creditable, some of the best types of men coming forward.

Additional appointments in connection with the Australian Expeditionary Force include the following:—

1st Infantry Brigade.—1st Battalion—To be Major: Major E. C. Dawson, 29th Infantry (Australian Rifles). 2nd Battalion—To be Captains: Captain A. R. Dignam, unattached list; Captain G. L. B. Concanon, 19th Infantry; 2nd Lieutenant A. B. Stevens to be Lieutenant, 4th Battalion; 2nd Lieutenant H. J. R. Clayton to be Lieutenant. 3rd Battalion—To be Captains: Captain C. W. H. Coulter, 4th (Blue Mountains) Infantry; Captain T. O. Smith, 43rd (Werriwa) Infantry. 1st Battalion—To be Lieutenants: Mr. C. Jackson, late Lieutenant, 2nd Battalion, Queen's Own Regiment; Mr. F. Fogden, late Rifle Brigade (Volunteers). 2nd Battalion—To be Lieutenants: Mr. C. W. Watson, late Lieutenant, 1st East Yorkshire Regiment; Mr. D. Shaw-Anderson, late Lieutenant, Royal Engineers (Volunteers); Lieutenant L. J. Morshead, senior cadets. To be 2nd Lieutenants: 2nd Lieutenant H. P. Barton, 41st Infantry; 2nd Lieutenant N. L. R. Griffin, 21st Infantry; Mr. D. M'N. Heugh, late 2nd Lieutenant, 4th Australian Infantry Regiment; Mr. G. E. Kelly, late Lieutenant, 3rd Imperial Bushmen (New South Wales). 3rd Battalion—To be Honorary Lieutenant and Quartermaster: Mr. G. Wall, late Lieutenant, 2nd Infantry Regiment, New South Wales. To be Lieutenant: Mr. J. C. Wilson, late Lieutenant, 2nd Loyal North Lancashire Regiment. 4th Battalion—To be Lieutenant: Mr. H. A. Chard, late Captain, 1st Volunteer Battalion, Gloucestershire Regiment. To be 2nd Lieutenants: Mr. J. S. Anderson, late 2nd Lieutenant, 25th Infantry; Mr. R. J. A. Massie, late Lieutenant, Senior Cadets; Corporal A. M. Giles.

A notice under district orders specified that the hiring of motor cars without the necessary authority is to be discontinued. The order says:—"While recognising the exceptional circumstances which have been in existence, it is necessary that application should be at once submitted for covering authority in any case where motor cars have been so hired, and that no further hirings should take place without prior authority being obtained. Every effort should be made to utilise motor cars gratuitously placed at the disposal of the department by members of the Automobile Club, etc."

The prohibition of the exportation of mares does not apply to mares for the use of the Australian Imperial Force.

COFF'S HARBOUR, Sunday.

Messrs. Rudder, Hull, Allwood, and Burns have left here to join the Expeditionary Force.

GERMANY.

SELF-DEPENDENT NATION.

THE FOOD SUPPLY.

"I know what Germany's internal resources are, and have no hesitation in saying that she can carry on the war for a couple of years at the least," said Mr. J. M. Hattrick, a commercial man resident in Australia.

Mr. Hattrick and his wife and niece (Miss Dorothy Davies) have just returned to Sydney from Germany, and were there when the war cloud broke. They were in the very last train to leave Berlin before the actual declaration, and had the vexatious experience of losing the whole of their luggage in the general rush from Germany.

An agricultural chemist by profession, Mr. Hattrick studied in Germany for a number of years, and has made periodical visits there from Australia. Consequently, he is well acquainted with the agricultural position. Farm work is, he says, going on just the same as usual, and the rye crop, which had been taken off while he was there, had been an exceptionally good one, and the wheat and oats harvests promised well. The farm work was being carried on by the boys, together with the women. It should be remembered that the women in Germany ordinarily did an enormous amount of the field work. It was the customary thing for the women of the peasant classes to work out of doors, and it was not regarded as a hardship. According to statistics, Germany was able to feed herself for nine days out of every ten throughout the year. The "bottling-up" of the fleet did not matter as far as Germany's internal food supply was concerned. It was absurd to talk of starving Germany in this way. The effect it would have would be to stop entirely oversea commerce, and this, of course, was a very serious matter, indeed. A lot of factories had stopped on account of the employees having been called to the colours, but others, such as those making clothing for the troops, munitions of war, ironworks, and dockyards, were working at high pressure day and night.

"It was in Berlin the whole of the last week in July," Mr. Hattrick went on to say, "and in the midst of all the excitement that prevailed. I shall never forget the experience. The 'Berliner Tageblatt' and the 'Lokal Anzeiger' issued extraordinary editions, which were given out gratis, every hour. The Berlin papers represented the crisis as having been wholly created by Russia."

TEACHER SUSPENDED

DISLOYALTY ALLEGED.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

In consequence of reports which reached him yesterday the Minister for Public Instruction (Mr. Livingstone) directed that Franz Stielow, a teacher at Mandwiang State School, should be suspended, pending an inquiry, which is to be held under the provisions of the Public Service Act.

Parents of children attending the school allege that the attitude which he adopted when giving the scholars an explanation of the war was calculated to instil disloyal thoughts in youthful minds. Statements obtained from the senior scholars attending the school are to the effect that their teacher was in the habit of reading the accounts of the war appearing in the daily papers, and of making uncalled for comments in favour of the Germans and against the Allied forces.

Another charge is that the teacher discouraged the scholars from contributing to the departmental patriotic fund. The suspended teacher is a native of Australia, and of German parentage.

RUSSIAN BARQUE.

UNAWARE OF WAR.

The Russian four-masted barque Garnet Hill arrived from Hudiksvall yesterday after a fine passage of 120 days.

The vessel left Hudiksvall on June 12, and those on board were surprised on arriving here to receive news of the outbreak of war. The Garnet Hill did not speak any other vessels on her long voyage, and accordingly came into port ignorant of the fact that she had been liable to capture by German or Austrian warships.

UNEMPLOYMENT.

COMMONWEALTH INTENTIONS.

MR. GRIFFITH'S CHALLENGE.

The Minister for Works referred on Saturday to Mr. Hughes's statement that the Commonwealth Government proposed to go in for a vigorous policy of public works, to absorb the unemployed, and would certainly not make any retrenchment nor put its workmen on half-time.

Mr. Griffith said he did not think that Mr. Hughes's statement was meant as a reflection upon the policy of the State Government. "I think," he added, "it was a perfectly honest statement of the intentions of the Commonwealth Government, and, of course, Mr. Hughes knows that, so far from retrenching, the State Government has kept up its expenditure on public works ever since the war began to the previously high standard of, approximately, £200,000 a week. Mr. Hughes also knows that we have absorbed over 3000 men who were thrown out of private employment, and that to do this it has been necessary to put workmen employed on railways and other public works not on half time but on four days a week, and these are guaranteed wet or fine. It is only in districts such as Broken Hill and Cobar, where the works are carried out purely to give relief, that the men are on half time."

"Before my department goes any further," said Mr. Griffith, "in the way of making attempts to absorb men thrown out of work by private employers, I propose to see what the Commonwealth Government is going to do. All through the election campaign and since they have been in office Mr. Fisher and his colleagues announced that they were going in for a vigorous public works policy for the purpose of keeping the wheels of industry moving. Roughly speaking, New South Wales contains about a third of the population and of the wealth of the Commonwealth, and as we have found employment for over 3000 workmen, the Commonwealth Government will have to absorb 12,000 before it can claim to have done as much proportionately as we have already accomplished."

STRANDED IN ITALY.

BRITONS AND AMERICANS.

DUBBO, Saturday.

The Chief of the Dubbo District Caledonian Society (Mr. J. W. Sillar), has received an interesting letter from Mr. Murdoch McLeod, of Wellington, who started out in March last on a tour of the world. Writing under date, Genoa (Italy), September 12, Mr. McLeod said that things were very unsettled, troops being on the move night and day, but it was quite understood that Italy would take no part in the war. Quite a number of stranded Britons were returning to England by the White Star liner Cedric, which was sailing for a port "not yet announced." He (Mr. McLeod) was going by the same boat also. "We have," Mr. M'Leod states, "to go home third-class; women and children in the saloon and second-class. We had to sign a war risk, absolving the company from any liability whatever, promising to assist in working the ship if called upon by the captain to do so and promising to keep our berths clean and relieve the few stewards from as much work as possible—and this, after paying full saloon fare and 12½ per cent. exchange on Italian notes."

Referring to the stranded tourists, Mr. McLeod says: "Italy is full of American tourists; about 70 per cent. of whom are women, a large number being school teachers on their vacation. It is quite distressing to watch them."

ANTWERP.

A FAMOUS SEAPORT.

For many years Antwerp has enjoyed the distinction of being the greatest seaport in the world. With the single exception of last year, 1913, the aggregate tonnage of the entrances and clearances at the port of Antwerp was much in advance of all the other great seaports. In 1913 New York took pride of place, being a few hundred thousand tons in advance of Antwerp; but that is explained as merely a temporary pre-eminence for the American port. The tonnage figures of the largest ports for 1912 are:—

	Entered.	Cleared.
New York	13,769,765	13,549,136
Antwerp	13,233,677	13,272,095
Hamburg	11,830,949	11,945,230
Hong Kong	11,138,527	11,142,117
Rotterdam	10,024,499	10,009,814
London	10,800,716	8,748,068
Monte Video	8,244,375	8,121,543
Marseilles	8,051,321	8,108,874
Singapore	7,737,785	7,717,601
Cardiff	6,239,944	9,169,115
Liverpool	7,253,016	7,446,573
Colombo	7,074,152	7,073,170
Rio de Janeiro	5,212,713	5,193,704
Shanghai	4,183,528	4,155,152

The total shipping of Sydney entrances and clearances for 1913 was 6,136,322, and of Melbourne, 4,859,545. The comparison between these figures, and those of Antwerp (26,506,345 tons) shows clearly what an important part of call Antwerp is.

The River Scheldt, on which Antwerp stands, is neutral water. In enters Holland 11 miles after leaving Antwerp, and runs thence through Dutch territory for 50 miles to the sea. It is what is known as a "trade-free" river, by special arrangement with the European Powers. Up to 1863 Holland levied a toll of 3s per ton on all ships using the Scheldt to reach Antwerp. This had a throttling effect on the great port, and after repeated protests, a conference, at which 21 European Powers and States were represented, was successful in arranging a treaty to free the waters of the Scheldt. Holland was paid compensation amounting to £1,440,000, of which sum Belgium paid £480,000. This was the cause of the rapid development of Antwerp, which now—making no allowance for the effects of war—has a population of 360,000, of whom there are 16,000 Dutch and 10,000 Germans.

ENEMY'S TRADE.

COMMISSION'S INQUIRY.

MELBOURNE, Saturday.

The Commonwealth Royal Commission on food supplies and on trade and industry during the war has submitted a progress report to the Governor-General. The Commissioners, Messrs. Alfred Deakin, Dugald Thomson, and G. H. Knibbs, stated that strong representations had been made to public trading and manufacturing bodies regarding the importance of establishing new or enlarged sources of supply for necessaries hitherto entirely or largely the product of the enemy. Information had also been asked as to whether it was thought provision could be effectively made for so doing (a) in Australia; (b) in the United Kingdom or British Dominions; (c) in Allied countries; (d) in neutral countries.

While some informative replies had been received it seemed to the commission that if practical results were to follow, especially as to a substitution of supply by Australia for that of the enemy, a close and constant touch should be established between bodies representing the manufacturers, producers, traders, and the Government, such as that between similar bodies and the Board of Trade in the United Kingdom. By this means concrete proposals, and not mere generalities in regard to each particular article considered, could be examined and conclusions be reached as to whether production here was now possible; if not, what reasonable provision would make it possible, or if it were impossible, if found impossible to manufacture such goods in Australia, it could be ascertained if steps had been, or could be taken, in the United Kingdom or British Dominions, in Allied countries, or in neutral countries, to provide the articles required.

LATE MR. T. E. WILLIAMS.

The funeral of Mr. T. E. Williams, late chief clerk in the Time Table Branch of the Superintendent of the Lines Office, New South Wales Railways, took place at the Church of England portion of the Waverley Cemetery on Friday last. The Rev. E. McKeown officiated at the grave. Amongst those present were Messrs. J. Symington, late of Junee; C. A. Hodgson, Superintendent of the Lines; J. Day, Goods Manager; J. Marr, Assistant Superintendent of the Lines; A. E. Heydon, representing Chief Mechanical Engineer; P. Smith, District Superintendent, Sydney; J. Clark, W. McEvoy, W. Daniels, R. Lewis, J. T. Smith, R. McDonald, and F. Evans.

THE FALL OF ANTWERP

TERRIBLE SCENES.

RUSSIAN ADVANCE.

NORTH-EAST FRANCE.

POSITION FAVOURABLE.

Antwerp is in the hands of the Germans.

After a terrible bombardment lasting 40 hours, the city surrendered.

The Belgian army effected a retreat, but 2000 of the British Naval Brigade, who participated in the defence, were forced to cross the Dutch frontier and surrender to the authorities.

The battle in the north-east of France continues in the Allies' favour, but without decisive change.

Fierce cavalry engagements are reported in the vicinity of Lille.

The Allies secured real advantages at several points north of the Oise.

The Russians have driven the Germans from the Suwalki district, and have occupied Lyck, in East Prussia.

The Russian centre is within 30 miles of Thorn, Prussia.

China has demanded the withdrawal of the Japanese from Tsi-nan-fu.

The King of Roumania, whose personal sympathies were with Germany and Austria, is dead.

Russia is endeavouring to induce Roumania to abandon her neutrality, while Austria is making counter offers.

WAR BULLETIN.

SIR GEORGE REID'S REPORT.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

Following is a copy of a telegram from the High Commissioner dated London, October 9, 1.40 p.m.:—An official communication from general headquarters, describing the movements of the British force and French armies in immediate touch with it, states that on September 30 there was no activity beyond slight attacks by the enemy, with artillery fire at intervals. The Allies' airmen succeeded in dropping nine bombs, some falling upon the rolling stock on the railway near Laon. The enemy's front trenches were found empty at night.

On this flank at night, as usual, the enemy attacked the lines and were repulsed.

Up to September 21 the British airmen covered a total of eighty-seven thousand miles, averaging two thousand miles daily. The total time spent in the air was fourteen thousand hours.

A battalion commander states that the German officers are skilled in leading troops forward under cover, but once the latter deployed the men declined to face heavy fire. Prisoners described the British fire as pinning them to the ground. In one instance, in an attack over open ground against an equal force, the infantry sheltered in a sunken road and ditches. The British lost ten killed and sixty wounded, while four hundred of the enemy surrendered after fifty had been killed. Each side had the support of a battery, but the fight for superiority took place at a range of 700 yards, and lasted only half an hour. The German forces wavered and put up the white flag.

October 1 was the most peaceful day since the forces engaged on the River Aisne. Only desultory gun fire took place during the night. The enemy made a few trenches. A French aviator dropped bombs on the railway station, where there were massed troops.

On October 2 the Germans were driven from a mill which was occupied as an advance post. Their machine guns were destroyed by the Allies' artillery. Our men continued firing, and eventually a large number of white flags improvised from handkerchiefs, shirts, and biscuit-bags, were exhibited all along the German lines. Many men hoisted helmets on rifles. Latterly the attacks are becoming more half-hearted. The enemy never closed with the bayonet against the British. Often the German trenches are deep enough to shelter men standing when firing, with a step at the rear for supports. Our men at first were reluctant to entrench. Now, having become experience clearly, they construct a defence and defy the German artillery fire.

The War Office denies the statement that Canadian troops have reached English waters.

October 10, 12.47 p.m.—The War Office announces that Antwerp was evacuated by the Belgian forces yesterday.

October 9, 8.20 p.m.—Official: A squadron under Commander Spencer Grey, with Lieutenants Marix and Sippe, made a successful attack on Dusseldorf airship shed. Lieutenant Marix dropped bombs from an altitude of 500 feet. They hit the shed and destroyed a Zeppelin, igniting the gas of the airships. The officers returned safely, but they lost an aeroplane.

Oct. 9, 1.15 p.m.—Some thousands of stricken Belgians arrived in England from Antwerp to-day, a great number being penniless and carrying their belongings in bundles.

The first list of British prisoners of war has been received from Germany.

A list of British casualties, reported from the base on the dates September 15, 16, and 17, shows:—Killed, four officers and 62 men; wounded, 32 officers and 274 men, missing, three officers and 634 men.

Oct. 10, 2.7 p.m.—Official: The battle is progressing favourably for the Allies, and in spite of violent attacks north of the Oise, advantages have been secured. Appreciable progress has been made in the Saint Mihiel region.

On the left wing there is in progress confused cavalry fighting in the region of La Bassee (13 miles south-east of Lille), Armentieres (nine miles north-west of Lille), and Cassel, 27 miles north-west of Lille.

The Russians have occupied Lyck, and the siege of Przemysl (in Galicia) continues favourably to the Russians.

A report issued by the Belgian Commission asserts that murder, rapine, butchery, and pillage were carried out on a deliberate, organised scale, under the direction of superior officers.

October 10, 1.30 a.m.—The Admiralty announces that in response to an appeal by the Belgian Government we sent to Antwerp during the last week of the attack two Naval Brigades, with heavy naval guns, and a detachment of the Royal Navy. Till Monday night last the Belgian army and the Marine Brigade successfully defended the line of the Nethe river. Early on Tuesday morning the Belgians on the right of the Marines were forced to retire.

In consequence the whole defence was withdrawn to the inner line of forts. The inner line of defences were maintained on Wednesday and Thursday, during a ruthless bombardment. The behaviour of the Royal Marines and Naval Brigades was praiseworthy. Their losses were probably under 300 out of a total of 8000. The defence could have been maintained for a longer period, but not long enough to allow adequate forces being sent to the relief without prejudicing the main strategic situation.

The Belgian and British military authorities in Antwerp therefore decided to evacuate. The British offered to cover the retreat, but General de Guise desired that they leave before the last division of the Belgians. After a long night march to St. Gilles, the Naval Brigades entrained.

Two brigades arrived at Ostend, but, owing to circumstances unknown, the greater part of the First Naval Brigade was cut off by a German attack north of Lokeren, and two thousand officers and men entered Dutch territory in the neighbourhood of Hulst, and laid down their arms. The retreat of the Belgian army was successfully accomplished. The naval armoured trains and the heavy guns were brought away. The retreat from Ghent onwards of the naval division and the Belgian army was covered by strong British reinforcements.

ANTWERP.

CITY SURRENDERED.

DEADLY SIEGE GUNS.

TERRORS OF BOMBARDMENT.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 10.

Antwerp has fallen.

Refugees state that the end came with unexpected suddenness. Antwerp surrendered at 9 o'clock on Friday, after 40 hours' bombardment. The Hotel de Ville, the Palace of Justice, and the Art Gallery suffered considerably from shell fire. The Plantin Mortens museum was also considerably damaged.

The terror in the city lasted 20 hours, and baffles description. The inhabitants who had not fled from the city took refuge in cellars. Many of them were struck by fragments of shells and debris from buildings as they were seeking shelter. The shops in the city have been closed since Thursday. All the valuables in the jewellers shops have been removed to places of safety, owing to the fear of the Germans looting the township as they did at Louvain.

The sight of the wounded Belgian soldiers traversing the city from the fortifications and redoubts surrounding the city added to the terror of the population.

While the main force of the German army before Antwerp was attacking the certifications in the neighbourhood of Lierx on Thursday, a heavy bombardment of the inner line of forts was proceeding from the direction of Boom.

As the fight progressed large bodies of infantry were flung against the redoubts guarding the inner circle of forts. Other troops delivered feigned attacks in the direction of Termonde, Duffel, and elsewhere for the purpose of diverting attention from Lierre. The south-eastern and the eastern forts, including the Lierre forts, ceased firing.

This enabled the Germans to force their way into Antwerp. The Belgians then blew up the fortifications.

The civic guard was also disbanded, and the majority of the men immediately volunteered for service with the regular army.

Shells fell on the prison, and the warders liberated the prisoners.

A Belgian staff officer states that of the forts outside Wuyre St. Catherine offered the most stubborn resistance.

A Zeppelin airship gave the range to the attacking artillery, and also dropped bombs in the vicinity of the forts. The commander of the fort pretended that the fort was on fire, thereupon the Zeppelin signalled to the infantry to advance and storm the fort. When the advancing soldiers reached the glacis of the fort the Belgian artillery and quick-firers opened fire and mowed down 8000 of the attacking force.

When the position became untenable, owing to the number of 1800lb shells which were hurled into the fort, the commander blew up the fort and retired.

THE SURRENDER.

HOW THE SOLDIERS FARED.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 11.

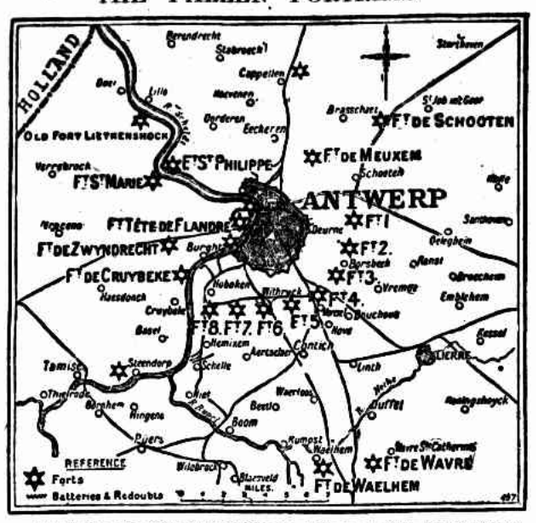

A Belgian officer states that the soldiers of the garrison when withdrawing across the Scheldt fought a desperate rearguard action. The fighting continued fiercely as the troops moved to the westward of the city.

The surrender of the city was carried out in an orderly manner. The civic authorities hoisted the white flag on church towers and public buildings.

All the grain-laden boats in the harbour had previously been sunk.

Fierce bayonet charges preceded the enemy's entry into Borchem. The refugees who remained in Antwerp towards the end of the bombardment opened holes in the walls of houses to enable them to escape in case of emergency. These holes permitted a passage to be made from house to house along whole streets.

THE FALLEN FORTRESS.

Besides the forts shown in the above map, there is an outer ring of stronger forts. The principal ones on the south-east side are at Oelegheim, Broecheim, Kessel, Lierre, and Koningshoyck. On the south-west side there are great forts at Puers and Bornhem. The Germans forced their way through the outer line of defence at Lierre, and they had reached the inner line of numbered forts when the evacuation was decided upon.

BRITISH BLUEJACKETS.

AID IN DEFENCE.

LONDON, Oct. 11.

It is officially announced that the British Naval Brigade, with a number of heavy guns, participated in the defence of Antwerp.

Eight thousand marines and bluejackets took part in the fighting around the city. Two brigades safely retreated to Ostend.

The Germans cut off 2000 of the first brigade, who were forced into Dutch territory, and surrendered.

The retreat of the Belgian army was successful.

THE FIELD ARMY.

PETROL STORES BLOWN UP.

The Belgian field army operating outside Antwerp retired in good order. The retreat, which began several days ago, was completed under the best conditions. The soldiers were all ordered to leave the forts and then they were blown up. They also blew up the petrol and benzine stores, and the Minerva motor factory, where machine guns, armoured trains, and aeroplanes were made during the last few months.

During the siege German Zeppelins and aeroplanes dropped 140 bombs on the forts and in the city.

The "Star" states that the Belgian army, which was operating in and around Antwerp, has escaped, but it had to fight the whole way.

HUGE GERMAN ARMY.

THREE HUNDRED THOUSAND.

Three hundred thousand German troops participated in the attack upon Antwerp.

SCENES IN THE CITY.

AN INFERNO OF DREAD.

ROTTERDAM, Oct. 10.

When the first gun boomed over Antwerp the city was dark and the streets were empty. Suddenly they became alive with people. Crying women and children flocked into the city from all directions.

After a quarter of an hour's lull the firing of big guns commenced again. Each explosion was followed by a weird long-drawn-out din, but the final explosion was the most fearful of all.

The bombardment continued all night, and ceased at dawn. The terror-stricken people were given a respite of a couple of hours, and then the bombardment was recommenced more fiercely than ever. Field guns joined the fortress guns in the dreadful chorus. Flames commenced to break out everywhere, and buildings came crashing to the ground. The city was turned into an inferno of dreadful noises and terror-stricken people.

Meanwhile fugitives thronged the streets, many of them half naked. Young people were to be seen dragging old and infirm relatives, and trying to reach a place of safety. They had no time to take their property. Numbers of women fainted owing to the frantic efforts made to reach the trains. The fugitives clung to every available part of the carriages, and even sat on the footboards and the roofs. Others even took refuge on the tenders of the engines. Crowds swarmed on to the boats at the Quays.

Thousands who were left behind commenced a weary march to the frontier. The Dutch villagers treated the refugees kindly, and provided them with food. Many wealthy Dutchmen have offered large houses and weekly allowances to poor families. A pathetic sight is the number of escaped lunatics who are roaming round the country.

The Dutch people are behaving with the generosity towards the refugees who are arriving from Belgium. The people in the cities of Rotterdam, Maastricht, Tilburg, Middelburg, Amsterdam, and Dordrecht are all taking large contingents of people from Belgium. At Esschen thousands of fugitives are camping along the railway lines. They are stretching a rough covering from the telegraph poles as a protection from the weather. Others are living in railway coaches. Trains passing through the encampments have to keep up a constant whistling for fear of running over the children who play on the lines. The country from Ghent to the sea is still free from Germans.

Many refugees prefer to go to Ostend, Ghent, Bruges, and other coast towns rather than leave their country. Throughout Thursday and Friday endless processions of people left Antwerp for the coast. They soon exhausted the food at the wayside inns and farms. The scenes which have been enacted during the last few days have been unprecedented since the Spaniards sacked Antwerp in 1576.

ANTWERP'S SHIPPING.

FIFTY BOATS SUNK.

LONDON, Oct. 10.

It is reported that nearly fifty vessels, including thirty-two German steamers, were destroyed at Antwerp, on the advice of the British Government.

THE REFUGEES.

PITIFUL PLIGHT.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 10.

Boats from Ostend are dangerously crowded. Most of them are carrying three times their usual number of passengers. The fare charged is ten francs, and children are carried at half rates.

The trains for Holland are packed with wailing women and children, crying with hunger. At every stopping place more people tried to enter the trains. They had been waiting on the stations for hours without food. At times men sank to the floor of the corridors from weakness. The majority of the women are in a hysterical condition, their one desire being to get beyond earshot of the German guns.

One horrible incident is reported. A chance shot struck a train leaving Antwerp for Esschen. Several of the unfortunate passengers were killed, and an indescribable panic ensued.

The plight of other fugitives is so desperate that the Dutch Government has issued a warning to the public not to treat the fugitives harshly if they behaved strangely, as many of them are partially demented.

The people at every big Dutch station meet incoming trains containing refugees from Belgium and offer the fugitives bread, biscuits, tea, and milk.

There were on Friday half a million Belgian refugees in Holland.

FUGITIVES IN LONDON.

LONDON, Oct. 10.

Seven trains of Belgians, principally citizens of Antwerp, arrived in London last night.

INCENDIARY SHELLS.

GHENT, Oct. 9

During Thursday shells fell constantly in Antwerp, including the Place Verte. Many places are on fire, and whole streets are reduced to ruins owing to incendiary shells.

A Zeppelin which was dropping bombs on the Law Courts was hit.

A diversion enabled the Germans to bring up fresh guns, and when this cablegram left the population was terrified by the continued scenes of horror and the darkness, which is only relieved by burning buildings and exploding shells.

The Belgian army made a gallant sortie from the left bank of the Scheldt.

THE BELGIAN LEADER.

General de Guise, the military governor of Antwerp, a pupil of Brialmont, is the youngest and most brilliant Belgian General. He assisted in organising the defence of Adrianople, where he was conducting an inspection when the Balkan War broke out.

THE FIRST NEWS.

LONDON, Oct. 10.

The "Daily Chronicle" published the first intimation in the London press that the Germans had entered Antwerp, and stated that the inhabitants are calm.

Marconi wireless messages from the Berlin headquarters staff stated on Saturday that Antwerp had been in possession of the Germans since Friday. The Belgian garrison had left the neighbourhood of the forts, only a few of which remained in the possessionof the Belgians.

FIRST NIGHT OF SIEGE.

CONSUL'S EXPERIENCE.

Mr. H. W. Diederich, American Consul at Antwerp, remained in the city for the first night of the bombardment. He says that he was aroused at 11 o'clock at night by frightful noises in the air. With his family, he crouched in the cellar all night. Every few minutes there was a dreadful whistling sound, followed by a thunder-clap, and the collapse of some building. He saw the whole front of a building torn out by a shell.

The streets were crowded with all descriptions of vehicles, which were engaged in removing fugitives. Shortly after Mr. Diederich's escape from the town the Hend Bridge across the Scheldt was destroyed, bottling-up the remainder of the inhabitants. It took him 13 hours to reach Ghent owing to the road being packed with fugitives.

A DEVOTED CITY.

MISERIES OF WAR.

A correspondent describes the firing of the 42-centimetre gun. Every 10 minutes there is a shot, a flame such as from the mouth of a blast furnace, a small cloud of smoke, a thunderous, though bearable, roar, and then a hiss. The Germans never fired wildly. Their spies worked out to a yard the ranges of vulnerable points.

King Albert, through a neutral attache, sent the German commander a plan showing the site of the cathedral and other ancient monuments, which he begged might be spared, but many shells have already fallen near the cathedral. The King of the Belgians is in the field with his army.

The Germans are using 200 guns of 28, 30, and 42 centimetre bore.

The British, French, and Russian Ministers were among the last to quit Antwerp, and witnessed the first part of the bombardment.

From midnight onward it fairly rained projectiles, sometimes as many as 20 per minute, but it is stated that more than half of the shells failed to explode.

Many civilians have been killed. The weather is calm, which has minimised the spread of the flames.

The Germans in their advance to the inner forts literally filled the dykes with their dead. Owing to their close formation, the Belgian machine-guns went through the Germans like scythes.

Hordes of refugees have arrived at Flushing in all sorts of river craft, which are loaded down to the gunwale with their human freight. The panic is pitiful, and 25,000 have fled into Holland. The Dutch are nobly feeding them, the homeless including 300 orphans.

It transpires that the Burgomaster of Antwerp issued a proclamation a week ago quoting the German Emperor's assurances of non-interference with the civil population, and warned the citizens against interfering with foreign soldiers entering the town.

The city, therefore, regarded surrender as the natural sequence and the only sane policy by which to save the city.

During the bombardment the destruction of the water-works by the Germans deprived the city of water, and prevented the Fire Brigade from extinguishing fires.

All the chief art treasures were removed to the suburbs of Borgerhout and Zurenborg. Boreham is almost entirely burned out.

It is rumoured that the Queen has sailed for England.

THE PRICE THEY PAY.

HEAVY GERMAN LOSSES.

Mr. Martin Donohoe, war correspondent of the "Daily Chronicle," states that wounded are pouring into Ostend, and it appears as if the Belgian medical arrangements have broken down. Many of the victims had been without food or water for long hours, and at Ostend there is a lack of food.

The wounded state that the German shell fire in a particular portion of the fortified ring about Antwerp was terribly severe.

In one section it reduced two forts to powder, and the enemy then flung a heavy assaulting column against the breach; but the Belgians met them with a terrific machine-gun fire.

The German columns wavered, and defied a liberal display of personal violence by the officers, and then broke and fled in disorder, and the losses in the flight became four-fold. After the infantry regained shelter, their artillery fired on the trenches.

Antwerp, the wounded state, is still holding out bravely, and the Germans are in force round Londerzele.

GALLANT KING.

FIGHTS IN THE TRENCHES.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 11.

The conduct of King Albert of Belgium throughout the siege and the bombardment was an inspiration to the Belgian troops. He wore the uniform of a private, shared meals with the men in the trenches, and only left the city when it was impossible to do more.

Some refugees state that they saw King Albert of Belgium with his arm in a sling.

DUTCH NEUTRALITY.

BRITISH FLEET'S DUTY.

LONDON Oct. 10

The capture of Antwerp by the Germans imposes additional duties on the British fleet to see that Dutch neutrality is not violated by the Germans using the Scheldt.

GERMAN ACTIVITY.

SOUTH OF ANTWERP.

OSTEND, Oct. 10.

GERMAN TACTICS.

OSTEND, Oct. 9.

The Belgian Government has entered a vehement protest against Germany monopolising the foodstuffs in Brussels and its environs, thus reducing the native population to famine.

BELGIUM'S PLEDGE.

HOW IT WAS KEPT.

LONDON, Oct. 11.

Viscount Haldane, Lord High Chancellor, speaking at Newcastle-on-Tyne, said that the finer qualities of the German race had been degraded to unworthy purposes, and subjected to the domination of a military spirit which should be exterminated.

Germany might be admirably prepared, he said, but her preparations would wear off against a people possessing Britain's resources. He did not underrate the magnitude of the task which was before the Allied forces. Now that the first shock was over the real struggle was beginning under much less favourable circumstances to Germany than in August, when the first rumours of the war were heard.

Earl Grey, who also addressed the meeting, said: "We are not going to stop until we have smashed the German army and navy, and the spirit of the Prussian militarist."

Maurice Maeterlinck, the famous Belgian author, was also present. He received an ovation when he rose to address the meeting. He said that "Latest events are pitiful. They tell the story of a little kingdom which kept its pledge and will die for it." (Cries of "Never.").

GERMAN ENTHUSIASM.

BEGINNING OF END.

ROME, Oct. 10.

The fall of Antwerp has caused unprecedented enthusiasm among the German people. It is regarded by them as the beginning of the end.

In all the cities flags have been hoisted and demonstrations held in the streets.

The wounded soldiers who are arriving at Aix-la-Chapelle, Cologne, and Dusseldorf are being covered with flowers and given presents.

A BLOW TO ENGLAND.

The "Tages Zeitung," a paper published in Berlin, states that the German captures during the last 11 days carry with them the germ of the capture of Paris, and also inflict a most serious blow to England.

NEWSPAPER OPINIONS.

SCATHING ARTICLES.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 11.

The "Algemeen Handelsblad," a newspaper published in Amsterdam, says that the possession of Antwerp may give satisfaction to Germany, but the German object has failed, as the destruction of the garrison was more important than the capture of the fortress.

The "New York Tribune," in a scathing article, says that Germany is concentrating her rage and revenge upon Belgium.

The "Sun" publishes a cartoon showing the Emperor of Germany surveying the ruins of Antwerp, and saying, "My heart bleeds for Antwerp also."

IN FRANCE.

THE GREAT BATTLE.

ARTILLERY DUELS.

PARIS, Oct. 9.

An official communique states: The general position remains unchanged.

The opposing cavalry is still operating north of Lille, where the battle continues along the line extending through Lens, Arras, Bray-sur-Somme, Chaulnes, Roye, and Lassigny.

Only isolated fighting has taken place in the centre, but there have been artillery duels all along the line in the Woevre district.

The position is unchanged elsewhere.

IN ALLIES' FAVOUR.

PARIS, Oct. 10.

A communique published to-day states:—The battle along the Aisne continues in favour of the Allies. Despite the enemy's violent attacks, the whole front maintained its position.

There have been fierce engagements at several points between the opposing cavalry on the line through La Basse, Armentieres, and Cassel, in the vicinity of Lille. The engagements were somewhat confused owing to the nature of the ground.

The Allies secured real advantages at several points north of the Oise. The allied forces have also appreciably progressed in the Saint Mihiel region.

Another communique states that further sharp fighting has occurred in the Roye region, where the Allies on Thursday and Friday took 1000 prisoners. Otherwise there is nothing new to report.

HEAVY FIGHTING.

PARIS, Oct. 11.

A communique issued at midnight on Saturday stated:—Heavy fighting is taking place around Arras.

The enemy has been making very vigorous attacks upon the heights overlooking the Meuse.

GERMAN RIGHT FLANK.

GERMANS ROUTED.

On October 4 a few German shells fell in the centre of Lille, which marked the beginning of the Germans' desperate attempt to escape from the encircling movement of the Allies.

The shells did little damage, and were fired by the batteries on the extreme left. The new force which advanced from the Belgian frontier formed a crescent lying roughly between Turcoing and Armentieres, and a violent series of engagements followed between about 10,000 of the enemy and the infantry garrisoning Lille. Savage fighting continued in the streets and boulevards on the eastern outskirts of Lille all Sunday until Monday, when the enemy was finally repulsed.

On Tuesday a gallant fight raged between the French and the big army stretching along the whole eastern, northern, and north-western suburbs of Lille. The battle raged all day and well into the night. The French guns wrought terrible havoc, and the slaughter was very ghastly. The Germans were mown down in hundreds. Their infantry fire was feeble, though the sound was incessant, which is taken to indicate that their whole transport has broken down seriously along the Northern Belgian lines of communication. The day ended in the complete rout of the enemy.

The French fought with magnificent dash and courage, and the German Armentieres-Turcoing army, which was intended to cover the flank of the main body advancing on Lille and Arras, was driven back 13 miles.

On Wednesday the French artillery came within 13 miles of Lens, and firing straight over the town bombarded the German positions near the village of Loison, and beat the enemy back north and eastwards with heavy losses.

On Thursday the Germans evacuated the Lille district, and also retired from Bethune in a north-easterly direction.

THE BRITISH CAVALRY.

Cavalry during the battle of the Aisne were bored by inaction, and petitioned Major-General Allenby to allow them to serve in the trenches as their carbines were useless. Major-General Allenby armed a third of the cavalry with rifles and bayonets similar to the mounted infantry of South Africa.

ANOTHER FRENCH SUCCESS.

Two French divisions, with a Territorial division, held positions near Arras for several days against overwhelming odds until reinforcements arrived.

Though the French losses were heavy the Germans were soundly beaten. The reinforcements, when nearing Arras, encountered a large force of Germans. In a frontal attack failing, a large force of the French went for the German flank, while the centre engaged and rushed the trenches. They made 900 prisoners.

USE OF DYNAMITE.

The Germans north of Soissons have been strongly posted in fortified posts called "mushroom beds" since the beginning of the present "siege battle."

The French troops failed to dislodge them, suffering severe losses. The commander then ordered the attacks to cease, and had entrenchments dug 200 yards from the Germans. French engineers mined the intervening space until it was possible to fire heavy charges of dynamite, which killed 500 Germans holding the trenches.

FRENCH AIRMAN KILLED.

M. Livetan Noel, a French airman, was making a reconnaissance when his monoplane capsized, and Noel and his passenger were killed.

GERMANS DISLODGED.

PRUSSIA ENTERED.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 10.

An official communique states that the Russians have dislodged the Germans from the Suwalki district, and have occupied Eskalejevo and Lake Gautcha. They have also occupied Lyck, in East Prussia.

The Russians have taken 10,000 prisoners and 40 guns in the latest fighting on the East Prussian frontier.

The German losses in the battle of Augustowo are estimated at 60,000.

The Russian centre, composed of 1,000,000 men, which has been mobilised in Warsaw, has advanced to within 30 miles of Thorn, on the German frontier, and is within 90 miles of Posen.

CZAR GOES BACK.

The Czar has returned to Tsarskoye Selo, the Imperial residence, 15 miles from Petrograd.

A correspondent has reported that the Russians have taken Przemysl.

HUNGARY'S PLIGHT.

VIENNA, Oct. 10.

There is an enormous influx of Galician refugees into northern Hungary, and has caused terrible overcrowding. Kaschau, with a population of 50,000, is sheltering 100,000. The prices of food have doubled and trebled, and the sanitary conditions are imperilling the community.

The Japanese Foreign Office has informed Washington that it is intended to relinquish the Marshall Islands and Yap to Great Britain at an early date.

FOMENTING ILL-FEELING.

TOKIO, Oct. 10.

The police are investigating a campaign which has been instituted by Germans throughout Japan to arouse anti-United States feeling. Numbers of newspapers in Tokio and elsewhere have, during the past fortnight, published numerous interviews with so-called Americans, who declared that anti-Japanese feeling in the United States was intense, and that war was inevitable.

Similar methods were employed in China.

NAVAL EVENTS.

BOMBARDMENT OF PAPEETE.

BORDEAUX, Oct. 9.

It is officially announced that the German warship Scharnhorst fired 150 shells at Papeete, igniting the commercial quarters and doing material damage. Sailors from the French warship Zelee and a detachment of colonial infantry prevented the enemy landing.

FRENCH SUCCESS.

PARIS, Oct. 10.

When the French fleet appeared at Gravosa, the port of Ragusa, Dalmatia, the Austrian authorities and the principal inhabitants of Ragusa fled.

The squadron destroyed the lighthouse and the wireless station, and took a few prisoners.

An Austrian aeroplane threw some bombs at the French, but they fell harmlessly into the sea. The guns on Mount Lovchen destroyed the aeroplane.

REPORTED COLLISION.

There is an unconfirmed report that two torpedo boats collided and sank off the Island of Porquerolles, in the Mediterranean.

BLOWN UP BY MINE.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 10.

A German mine blew up a German fishing boat. One man was killed, and one injured.

LATE WAR NEWS.

FALL INEVITABLE.

NO NEED FOR DEPRESSION.

LONDON, Oct. 11.

Mr. Walter Runciman, M.P., addressing a meeting at the Kingsway Hall said there was no reason to be depressed by the fall of Antwerp, which was inevitable. It enabled the Belgian army to co-operate closely with the Allied armies in France and Belgium.

The German press was predicting Zeppelin raids on England, but they miscalculated the British character if they thought to frighten people thus. "We have courageous men in our flying corps," he declared, "who have pledged themselves to dash their machines through any Zeppelins that came, even if both are dashed to the earth."

DEFENCE OF ANTWERP.

ARMY SAFE.

OSTEND, Oct. 11.

The Belgian army, the British force from Antwerp, and the King of the Belgians arrived safely at Ostend.

The Belgians manned trenches at Antwerp for 72 hours.

Their headquarters was established on a high tower, which was connected by telephone with all the trenches. While the battle was confined to infantry, the Belgians easily held their own, but the overpowering massed artillery fire, directed from Taube aeroplanes, was irresistible.

The English Women's National Field Service Hospital passed through alarming experiences. It was necessary to rescue 130 patients who were in the direct line of shell fire, and close by an ammunition building. Those able to walk were allowed to find their way out of the city, and 80 of the most serious cases were carried to cellars, where they spent Thursday night, the shells bursting above them throughout.

TO RELIEVE PRZEMYSL.

ARMIES PRESS ON.

ROME, Oct. 11.

ROUMANIA.

DEATH OF KING CHARLES.

LONDON, Oct. 10.

Reuter's Agency announces the death of King Charles I. of Roumania.

[King Charles (Carol), of Roumania, who was 75 years of age, had the distinction of representing the senior branch of the Hohenzollern family, the German Emperor representing only the junior branch. His relationship with the latter led to friction with his Ministers a month or two ago as to the attitude that the country should preserve in the present war, the Cabinet, it was stated, favouring siding with the Triple Entente, while the King himself desired to aid the Allies. If we count from his election as Prince of Roumania in 1866, King Charles stood third among the monarchs of Europe in the matter of length of reign, the other two being the Emperor of Austria and King Nicholas of Montenegro. His heir, Prince Ferdinand, who became Crown Prince on the renunciation of his brother, is a nephew of King Charles, has a connection with the English Royal family, and is a G.C.B. He married in 1893 Marie, second daughter of the Duke of Edinburgh and granddaughter of Queen Victoria, and his heir reached his majority last year. The Queen of Roumania, who will now be the Dowager, is known all the world over as "Carmen Sylva." She is 71 years of age, and the author of "Thoughts of a Queen," "Edleen Vaughan," "Shadows on Life's Dial," "A Real Queen's Fairy Book," and many poems, novelettes, fairy tales, and dramas.]

RUSSIA'S OFFER.

AEROPLANE LOST.

LONDON, Oct. 9.

The Admiralty announces that Commander Spencer Gray, with Lieutenants Sippe and Marix, dropped bombs from a height of 600 feet on Dusseldorf, and a great jet of gas and flame from a Zeppelin arose.

The three officers are safe, but an aeroplane was lost.

OUTRAGES BY ENEMY.

EXCESSES AT AERSCHOT.

LONDON, Oct. 10.

The Press Bureau states that the report of the Belgian Commission into the excesses at Aerschot shows that they were due to the regular army and the Landsturm equally.

Murders, looting, rapes, and attacks on persons and property only ceased when the Belgians re-entered Aerschot.

A Belgian soldier affirms that, with 27 other prisoners, he was forced to walk in front of the Germans along the road on the banks of the Demer. The Germans then fired, killing many, and the narrator feigned death. The Germans discovered his ruse, and were about to shoot him when an officer said that he was not worth a bullet, and told the men to throw him into the river.

This was done, and the Belgian escaped by remaining in the water for a day with only his head emerging. Only one other escaped.

There is corroborative evidence by the inhabitants that the bullet which killed the German general came from the Germans, and not from the burgomaster's son.

MURDERS AT DINANT.

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 9.

Messages from Amsterdam state that the Germans at Dinant shot Mr. Himmer, Argentine Vice-Consul, on his own doorstep, and also 20 of his workmen, although they were not armed. The Argentine flag was also thrown in the street.

The public are incensed at the delay of the Argentine Government in obtaining satisfaction.

SAXON OFFICER'S NOTEBOOK.

PARIS, Oct. 9.

A notebook found on a wounded Saxon officer gives further details of outrages committed by the German soldiers. It is stated that they caught 12 sharpshooters in Lisogne, and placed them in lines in order that the same shot would hit three simultaneously.

The Germans also shot men, women, and children found in a monastery in Bousignies, 18 miles south-east of Mons. They also burned the houses in Villers, and shot a priest and some of the inhabitants because they had warned the French of the approach of the Germans.

M. Chretien, a San Francisco lawyer, visited the Vosges, and has furnished a terrible report of German barbarities inflicted on civilians of all ages and sexes. Abominable atrocities were perpetrated on women, and nearly all the villages had been soaked with petroleum and burned.

IN COLD BLOOD.

AUSTRIANS HANG PRIEST.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 10.

The "Swiet" states that Austrian officers attended a service at Shabatz Cathedral, Servia, and ordered the priest to pray for the Emperor Francis Joseph. The priest recited the usual prayers for King Peter of Servia, and the Austrians hanged the priest.

WHEN THE WAR ENDS.

REFORM OF GERMANY.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 10.

The "Novoe Vremya" advocates a timely agreement between the Allies with regard to the means to be employed for the overthrow of German militarism, lest the conclusion of the war should take them unawares.

The sacrifices already made, says the paper, would be in vain if they left intact the political organism which denies to all save itself the right to live. The fight against militarism means, de facto, the fight against the German Emperor personifying the German Empire.

THE DOMINIONS.

AUSTRALIAN CONTINGENTS.

LONDON, Oct. 9.

All newspapers applaud Australia's decision to send a light horse brigade to the front.

The "Evening Standard" says that it is evident that the oversea dominions are determined to see the war through. The spirit dominating Australia in sending a third contingent, and Canada in sending a second, proves that the oversea portions of the Empire will second the Allies' efforts to the last ounce of their power.

AUSTRALIA AND JAPAN.

STATEMENT BY SIR GEORGE REID.

LONDON, Oct. 9.

Sir George Reid, High Commissioner for Australia, when interviewed for the United States' newspapers, states that Australia was proud of her kinship with American democracy, with which she had a common mission in the Pacific.

The freedom conferred on Australia by the motherland, he said, had made the bonds between Australia and Britain far stronger than any brute force, and had evoked a spontaneous response at the outbreak of the war. He wished to dispel the idea that Australia was unfriendly to Japan. England had given the nations equal chances in her markets, and he asked, what would the future of American trade be if the German Empire had the chance of shutting those fiscal doors?

Bismarck's "blood and iron" policy was two hundred years late. He hoped that a new Germany would arise on the ruins of the tyrannical aristocracy, and that it would be a copy of his noble German fellow-colonists in Australia.

COMMERCE.

GERMAN SUPPLIES.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.

The average shipment of oil to Scandinavian countries has increased fivefold since the war. It is believed that Germany is obtaining her supplies this way.

BRITISH ACTION.

LONDON, Oct. 10.

With a view to checking trade with the enemy through neutral countries, an order has been issued in a Government Gazette requiring that all exports shall bear a certificate that the goods concerned are not intended for the enemy. A similar order has been issued with regard to imports, with the exception of foodstuffs.

UNITED STATES WHEAT.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.

The Government crop reports forecast 892,000,000 bushels of wheat, exceeding the previous maximum production by 128,000,000 bushels.

The authorities predict that the bulk of the surplus will go to England and France. It is not expected that a single bushel will reach Germany.

NEW SOUTH WALES LOAN.

LONDON, Oct. 10.

There is a keen demand for New South Wales Treasury Bills, buyers coming down to 4¼ per cent.

REDUCED BANK RATE.

The banks have reduced interest on deposits to 2 per cent.

BEET SUGAR.

LONDON, Oct. 9.

The secretary of the British Beet Sugar Council advocates the establishment of 10 factories, costing £4,000,000. These, he anticipates, will in two years produce about 100,000 tons of sugar.

The 4-m ship H D. Bendixon, has left London for Wellington.

LONDON, Oct. 10.

The barque Nordstern, which left Sydney on July 24 with 20,484 bushels of wheat, has arrived at East London.

The R.M.S. Orontes has left London for Australian ports. The steamer Tropic has left Liverpool for Australian ports. The steamer Largo Law has left London for Fremantle. The steamer Whakatane has left London for Lyttelton.

AUSTRALIAN MAILS.

LONDON, Oct. 9.

The mails shipped on board the Messageries Maritimes steamer Sydney have been delivered.

GENERAL ITEMS.

ROME, Oct. 10.

The Vatican estimates that 63,000 priests are serving with the various armies. They are mostly employed on hospital work, and include seven bishops and nineteen prelates.

LONDON, Oct. 10.

British officers who are prisoners in Germany have conveyed the news that they are alive by means of small cheques given to the German Red-Cross Fund. Cox's Bank has thus traced 67.

The "Daily Telegraph" publishes extracts of the memorandum of the late Captain Bertrand Stewart, which was submitted to all Ministers of oversea dominions, emphasising Germany's system of recent years in investigating trumped-up cases of English spying with a view to exciting public demand for more ships and men. The memorandum also describes sham trials based on mendacious evidence, and of cruelties in the prisons, and the "Daily Telegraph" is of the opinion that the revelations of the memorandum had some part in uniting the Empire against the Germans.

Eleven English railway companies have contributed nearly 40,000 recruits for Kitchener's army.

The patriotic concert given by Madame Clara Butt and Mr. Kennerley Rumford in aid of Queen Mary's Women's Fund attracted an audience of 12,000. Mr. and Mrs. Rumford are also giving the whole of the proceeds of their autumn tour of the provinces, comprising 20 concerts.

PARIS, Oct. 10.

Fifteen spies masquerading as French men were found in a large factory near Lille. They took shelter in the lofty chimneys, and were all shot off their grimy perches, screaming allegiance to France.

BORDEAUX, Oct. 9.

The Germans have again bombarded and completely destroyed President Poincare's property at Champigny.

BORDEAUX, Oct. 11.

Five hundred German prisoners have been sent to Morocco.

WAR NOTES.

THE FALL OF ANTWERP.

Beyond the Germans and the Austrians there will be no one in all the world who will receive the news of the fall of Antwerp with feelings in which the profoundest sorrow is not dominant. Surprise, disappointment, and any other emotion born of the dramatic reduction of the great fortress are at the outset dimmed by an overwhelming pity for the Belgian people. A ghastly fate seems determined to force them to drain the cup of bitterness to the very dregs. When we consider that this little State and no part whatever in the making of the war, that her people only took up arms to defend the integrity of their country against a bullying, lying, violator, who cynically proclaimed his contempt for his own pledges; when we review the grisly series of events that have been enacted within her borders during the past few weeks, when we recall the awful associations of Louvain, Termonde, Malines, Aerschot, and the rest—with these things in mind, there will be few of us who will be able to read the detailed horrors of the bombardment of Antwerp without a catch in the throat.

"WE WILL MAKE GOOD THE WRONG."

The last dark diadem seems to have been placed in the crown of horror when we read the advice of the Dutch Government to its people:—"Deal gently with the refugees should they appear to act strangely." Some of those refugees emerged from the smoke-wrack of Louvain, and fled to Brussels; later they sped before the Germans to Malines, then, once more, with the booming of the guns and the crash of wrecked buildings behind them, they flew to Antwerp. Spur our imagination as we may, we cannot picture all that those poor harried souls have gone through—but it needs no mental effort to picture them, at last upon neutral soil, "acting strangely." When Germany invaded Belgium, the Imperial Chancellor declared:—"We will make good the wrong we are doing." One wonders if Herr von Bethmann-Hollweg seriously thinks that if Germany bent all her energies, from now till the dissolution of Time itself, she could win even near to the fulfilment of such an undertaking.

THE BELGIAN SPIRIT.

At the same time we must more than ever admire the indomitable spirit of the Belgians. With their capital and their great seaport and military base in the hands of the enemy, with some of their most cherished towns mere heaps of ruins, and with three-quarters of their territory laid waste, they are fighting now more fiercely than ever. Since the first repulse at the battle of Mons, the Allies have been able to do practically nothing to aid them; yet not for an instant is the idea entertained that having fought nobly they might with honour lay down their arms. The Antwerp garrison evacuated the city before the surrender, and fighting a pitiless rear-guard action, made their way westward. They fell back towards Ostend; but not till the British reinforcements covered their retreat did their guns cease to boom defiance in the face of the despoilers.

GUNS VERSUS FORTIFICATIONS.

From the purely military point of view, the fall of Antwerp is an episode to be pondered by every nation in the world. By common consent it was always spoken of as one of the strongest fortresses in Europe, and its reduction was regarded as a matter not to be compassed inside a month or without enormous loss of life. Germany alone—and then only since Liege and Namur had shown her of what her new siege guns might be capable—had an idea that the fortress might be reduced in days instead of months. She brought up these guns, and concentrated their fire on one or two of the great outer forts on the south-east arc of the iron-bound circle guarding the city, and hammered away at them until they became untenable. Having made a breach in the circle, it would be only a matter of comparatively short time to blow a way through the inner and weaker line of fortifications—a fact which the garrison fully appreciated, for, after inflicting the maximum penalty it was possible for them to inflict upon the besiegers, they destroyed most of what would be likely to be of use to the enemy, and withdrew from the city. The incident means that all the nations will have to completely revise their ideas on the old, old problem of guns versus fortifications. When a fort like Wavre St. Catherine can be put out of action within a few days, then the question arises: What fortifications can possibly be constructed that the gunmaker cannot demolish?

THE GERMAN PLAN.

Now that it is clear that the Germans felt they could batter a way into Antwerp in a comparatively short space of time, the move against that city is made correspondingly clear. It was at first thought that the fortress was so strong the German's would hesitate to make a determined attempt to take it; but if they made a big demonstration against it this would have the effect of keeping the admittedly dangerous Belgian troops occupied well to the north, even if, together with the operations on the Scheldt, it would not eventually result in bottling up the whole of the Belgian forces, and thus remove a constant menace to the lines of communication. Now it would appear that the events which have developed so dramatically in the north of France have a bearing on the matter. The Allies' line has been creeping ever farther and farther along the German left, and it will not be long, at the present rate of progression, before the Allies have swept up into northern Belgium. In that event Antwerp would begin to assume an importance in which it was entirely lacking while the Allies were held well down past the Franco-Belgian border. With startling suddenness, it has became apparent that Belgium is once more to become the scene of great and vital operations, and not only south-western Belgium, but northern Belgium as well. The Germans, realising this, and also that they must keep clear as much of Belgium as they can, and, further, that the fewer of their men that would have to remain in the east the better—they set about sweeping the Belgians from the north-east, and, feeling that they could take Antwerp, though the whole world doubted it, they made the attempt. That they succeeded brilliantly must be admitted.

OSTEND AND THE ALLIES' LEFT.

We are told this morning that rather confused fighting is in progress in a triangle which has as its points Armentieres, La Bassee and Cassel. The last-named town is only 17 miles from Dunkirk and 35 from Ostend, so it may be seen how close the extreme left of the Allies' line is to the Anglo-Belgian force which is now based on Ostend. There appears to be still a considerable force of Germans between the two lots of troops, and a desperate effort will be put forward to prevent the linking up; but we may well expect to hear of the junction within the next few days as the interval need only be lessened but slightly for the position of the German force in between to become something much less than comfortable. This Anglo-Belgian force at Ostend will prove a great accession of strength to the Allies' left. We can, of course, have no idea of its numbers, but there is one reassuring phrase in Sir George Reid's cable this morning. He says that the retreat from Ghent onwards of the British naval division and the Belgian army was covered by "strong British reinforcements." It would appear, therefore, that part of the Allies' plan in connection with the northward advance of the left wing has been the quiet building up of a fairly strong force at Ostend for use when the proper moment arrived. We are told that 300,000 Germans took part in the attack on Antwerp. The major portion of this force is now free to be thrown westward, together with any other German forces further south who have been engaged in keeping the Belgians north of the line of communications. One question which suggests itself is—will these German troops in Belgium be now thrown against the Anglo-Belgian force at Ostend, and will they be able to do any damage before that force links up with the Allies' line from France?

TROOPS INCENSED.

STREET RIOT IN MELBOURNE.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

A serious disturbance took place in the city last night between the police and a number of members of the Expeditionary Force.

The soldiers had become incensed at the publication of an article in a weekly newspaper concerning alleged sensational happenings in which a girl was concerned at Broadmeadows camp. The soldiers tore down the placards in the street indicating the nature of the article, and when newsboys shouted in the streets that the papers contained the article complained of bundles of papers were snatched from them and torn up. The police eventually ordered the soldiers to move on, and when one was placed under arrest 30 of his comrades rescued him. Later on, another soldier was taken into custody, and during the struggle which followed Swanston and Bourke streets were blocked by a crowd estimated at 20,000. The whole of the traffic was suspended at different periods, and 20 police, including the troopers, were called out. Troopers charged the crowd along the footpaths and the roads, while foot police used batons and handcuffs over the heads and shoulders of the leaders of the mob. The disturbance lasted for at least three hours, and several soldiers were taken away under escort of the military police. Two constables were injured.

NEW BRITAIN.

MINOR TROUBLES.

News was received in Sydney last night that the members of the Australian expeditionary force in New Britain were well, and that there had been little or no fighting since the capture of the wireless station near Rabaul.

It was stated that the natives had given some trouble, but this had not necessitated any fighting of a serious nature, and no casualties had been reported.

Mr. George Cann sat for three years in the Commonwealth Parliament, 1910-1913. He won the Nepean from Mr. Bowden on April 13, 1910, when the Deakin-Cook Government was defeated at the polls, and deposed from office. He was, however, defeated at the following general election, May 31, 1913, when the Fisher Government was compelled to tender its resignation. On that occasion the Nepean was captured by Mr. R. B. Orchard, who retained possession of the seat at the recent Federal elections. Mr. George Cann is a brother of Mr. J. H. Cann, Chief Secretary in the Holman administration. He was born at Cramlington, Northumberland, England, in 1871, and is, therefore, in his 44th year. He began life early in a Northumberland coalmine at 12 years of age. Following his brother he came to Australia, in 1903, and entered a colliery at Oakey Park. Twelve months afterwards he was elected president of the Western Miners' Association. At the 1908 municipal elections he was fifth on a poll of 19 candidates for the Lithgow Council of 12 aldermen.

MR. GEORGE CANN, M.L.A.

THE LATE MR. ALFRED BROOKS.

Mr. Alfred Brooks, engineer in charge of wharfage construction in connection with the Harbour Trust, who died at his residence, Wycherley, Musgrave-street, Mosman, on Thursday, was buried at Gore Hill Cemetery on Saturday afternoon. Deceased joined the Harbours and Rivers Department about 33 years ago as a cadet. For many years he was resident engineer on the northern rivers, and inspector of dredges. Three years ago he joined the Harbour Trust as assistant engineer. The deceased was 49 years of age, and was the eldest son of the late Mr. Thomas Brooks, of Newcastle. He leaves a widow and two children.

The Union Steamship Company has despatched the steamers Kittawa and Terawhiti to search for the steamer Kini, which is believed to be drifting towards the Chathams. The following are thought to be the Kini's officers:—Captain Stewart; chief officer, W. Lowry; second officer, — Dalgleish; third officer, C. R. Johnston; chief engineer, J. W. Cannon; second engineer, L. Z. Dawson; third engineer, J. D. Townsend. The names of the crew are unknown here. It is believed that three seamen, three firemen, a steward, a cook, and a boy, are still on board.

PATRIOTIC CONCERT.

The Repertory Theatre was crowded to the doors on Saturday evening on the occasion of a performance by the Pymble Cecilia Ladies' Choir in aid of the Chamber of Commerce War Food Fund. The choir, consisting of 40 voices, was under the baton of Miss Ada Baker, and rendered Roeckel's cantata, "The Hours" in a way that aroused the enthusiasm of the audience. The cantata was preceded by a concert programme and a lively little comedy. Those who appeared in the first part included Miss Clare Pratt (musical monologue, "Only a Soldier"), Mr. J. H. Hancock ("Wert thou a Slave"), Mdlle. Jessica ("We all want to go"), Harry Thomas (as "It" in "He, She, and It," Miss Ada Baker impersonating "She"). During the interval gifts were sold by auction, and a substantial sum was realised. In "The Hours" the following took part: Miss Lily Hudson, Miss Vera Hall, Miss Irene D'Arcy, Miss Trixie Hall, Mr. Harry Thomas, Miss Norah Ashe. Miss Flo Annabel, representing Australia, sang "When the Empire Calls."

RANDWICK PLATE.

WON BY ULVA'S ISLE

A.J.C. SPRING MEETING.

THE FINAL DAY.

Saturday saw the spring race meeting of the A.J.C. brought to a conclusion at Randwick. Nearly 20,000 people attended—a large gathering for the last day, especially in view of the threatening weather. Some slight showers had fallen overnight, and the prospects were not too encouraging in the early part of the forenoon, but the afternoon, though a trifle chilly, remained fine. The club can congratulate itself on having had good weather and good attendances throughout the meeting. If the attendances have not come up to last year's record, it is not to be wondered at, in view of the changed conditions caused by the war.

The grandstand and lawns were again thronged by fashion, and even the threat of rain did not prevent a display of beautiful dresses and hats. It is certainly to the racecourse you must go if you would see fashion at her best. It is a fine thing to see the glossy coats of well-kept horses, and the glittering colours of the jockeys mounted on their backs, racing on a track that has such beautiful surroundings as that at Randwick; and when stands and lawns are crowded as they were on Saturday, there is an added picture of loveliness well worth going out to see. And then the excitement of the thing.

The race is over. The last cries die away. From a corner of the lawn men with large bags hanging at their sides, their names writ large upon them, and other men with large cards and pencils, move back across the cemented square and get upon their stands. "I pay Ulva's Isle! I pay! I pay!" they shout, as if their chief mission in life is to do good to others and give money away. The whole lawn begins to move towards the men who pay. The people on the stands come down, and turn to the left—towards the men who pay. There is no hurry, but slowly, methodically, the crowd moves on to the wide cemented patch and the stands beneath the trees. If you have never seen it before it is something to see that moving mass of colour. If you have never heard it before it is something to hear that shuffle of the thousands' feet as they slowly move towards the men who pay. Not that all these people are going to be paid. Time would never permit it, for one thing. There is another race to follow, and by the time those who are engaged in this generous business of distributing largesse have dealt thus handsomely with a few hundreds (and the rest are sent empty away) some numbers go up on a window and some names go up on a board, and the next thing you hear is "Even money on the field," or "Two to one, bar one." It is wonderful.

ON THE LAWN.

WINTER DRESSES IN SPRING.

Women race-goers who have seen this spring meeting through may now congratulate themselves on having done the right thing. The stands and lawns on all four occasions have been well filled, and worthily representative of Randwick at its best. On Saturday, which was a wet, chilly day, the airy lightness of summer finery had vanished, as if quite blown away by the cold wind, and winter garments, even including fur coats, were once more on view.

An important factor in the general dress-proposition were the coats and skirts which were worn by the best-garbed women on the lawn, and, as these were made in the mode which came in long after the beginning of last season, it shows that our dressmakers have been kept busy to a good end. These new tailor-made suits prove that wearers are finding that a well-cut cloth or serge costume is a necessity all the year round, in summer as well as in the winter. Those seen on Saturday were cut much fuller in the skirts, and the voluminous coats in most cases showed frills and flounces of the stuff, and sashes and large "Uncle Toby" vests of ecossais, or brocade or striped chiffon taffeta or satin. The silk trimming forms a most important feature; in fact, it "makes the fortune" of the whole toilette.

Hats may be passed over, with the obvious remark that they had all been seen before and presented no new features. The black velvet upstanding shape looked well with the coats and skirts, and also the "bowlers" and "sailors" were seen in great variety.

The Lady Mayoress (Mrs. R. W. Richards) was in black and white, covered with a long caracul coat, a white hat with a white lace brim and black osprey was worn. Mrs. Anthony Hordern had a deep petrol cloth coat and skirt, made in the new baggy fashion, finished with striped silk, vest, and bow, black velvet hat with large ospreys. Mrs. P. Osborne had an indigo blue ratine cloth with bright striped silk facings, and a tall black hat with upstanding mount. Miss Enid Woolfe (W.A.) looked well in grey tweed, made with a three-tiered skirt, and a black hat with very long feather. Mrs. J. Meeks, black taffeta costume, block and white hat. Mrs. W. Anderson had a mauve cloth coat and skirt, and large picture hat. Mrs. W. Whitney wore a black fur coat over a nattier silk ninon gown, and a champagne tinted sailor hat, trimmed with berries and blue ribbon. Mrs. Cecil Cowper, navy blue cloth tailor-made, and a black and white plumed hat. Mrs. Geo. Maiden was also in navy and small stone-coloured hat. Miss Jean Morton wore a navy suit and a black velvet hat with feathers. Miss Ruth Morton was also in navy blue with a gold-colour velvet hat. Mrs. Thos. Hughes in navy blue taffetas, much frilled, had a hat with masses of kilted tulle and some bright roses. Mrs. Kelso King, burgundy broche combined with black taffeta, and a black hat trimmed with black lace and skunk. Miss Twynam in mole gaberdine and skirt, wore a hat to match, brightened with purple. Miss M. Brownlow, mustard-striped cloth finished with a black bow, black hat with electric blue bows. Mrs. Worrall in navy blue tailor-made costume had a black hat trimmed with roses. Mrs. H. H. Osborne was in electric blue spotted foulard and hat to match, with blue rosette. Mrs. Alfred Turnbull was in a navy costume and a small creme hat. Mrs. Floyd had a smart suit of putty-coloured cloth and a black hat with flowers. Mrs. Reginald Allen royal blue satin and a small blue straw hat with white grapes. Mrs. W. G. Layton had a costume of blue and white checked eponge cloth, blue hat trimmed with a bunch of small flowers. Mrs. Ken Richards in blue serge had a small blue hat with ribbon trimming. Miss K. Osborne, dark coat and skirt and black hat. Miss M. Playoust in petrol blue and hat to match, and her sister was in lime green charmeuse and a blue sailor hat with white bows. Mrs. Clarence Bridge, petrol blue satin, black hat with forget-me-nots; Mrs. Neville Dangar wore long musquash coat and a black hat with a large white rose. Miss Bogue (Tas.), nattier blue corduroy coat and skirt and black and white hat. Miss Ella Richards, ivory white coating, serge tailor-made costume, sailor hat with flowers. Miss Doris Wade was in navy coat and skirt and a hat trimmed with field flowers. Mrs. Macneil Simpson, in black had a small white hat with flowers. Mrs. L. Dodds was in black moire with a seal-skin coat and black hat. Mrs. F. M'Masters (Cassilis) wore a black taffeta costume and black hat. Miss Lilian Fosbery (Melbourne) had one of the many well-cut check coats and skirts worn with a blue hat. Mrs. Gordon Marr, in nattier blue soleil and a black and white hat. Mrs. Pasco was in dark grey coat and skirt with embroidered vest, black hat and flowers. Mrs. E. J. Lamb wore a white chiffon voile gown, and over this an emerald satin cape coat trimmed with small buttons, black hat. Mrs. H. R. Denison, sage green coat and skirt trimmed with large buttons, green hat with quills. Mrs. Stuart Osborne, black gown with embroidered collar, black hat with green wings.

Also present were Mrs. Fred Pope, Miss Vera Pope, Dr. and Mrs. Kenna, Mrs. A. E. Hughes, Mr. Kelso King, Miss Dorothy Gordon, Mr. J. N. Osborne, Dr. and Mrs. H. Kerdall, Mrs. Tom Rolin, Dr. and Mrs. Oscar Paul, Mr. Thos. Hughes, Miss Buckland (Pine R'dge), Miss E. Aitken, Miss A. Aitken, the Misses Vicars, Mr. and Mrs. J. Burns, Mr. Froude Flashman, Mr. and Mrs. T. Watson, and Mr. W. G. Layton.

THE RACING.

The only change in the general conditions for the final day of the reunion was that of the weather, and a bracing southerly wind brought overcoats and wraps into use. The track was first class going, and was not affected by the slight showers overnight. The fields were not of such large proportions as on the previous days, but the standard of the racing was fully upheld. Several falls occurred, the majority of which were in the cross-country race; but neither riders nor horses were much the worse for their mishaps. While taking part in the Grantham Stakes, Silver Beach fell near the three furlongs post and broke one of his legs; while, near the same place in the Highweight Handicap, Gillaliambi and Heathergo came to grief, and W. Baker, who had the mount on the latter, had his nose broken. Wagering was very brisk, but backers of favourites had a particularly bad time, for all the best fancied horses suffered defeat, while the successes of the outsiders, Greyspear, King Lucre, and Simon Frisco in the Waverley Handicap, Dowling Steeplechase, and Final Handicap, materially assisted in augmenting the profits of the ringmen.

The Highweight Handicap, with which the afternoon's sport commenced, attracted a field of 17, and there was most money for Ligero, who started a pronounced favourite, while Spurn was next in demand, and was closely run in the quotations by Tatterley and Alfred Jackson. The favourite and Ligero dwelt when the word was given, and the former ran last all the way; while the top weight, Tatterley, who moved off in front, was not afterwards headed, and won in good style from Spurn, who, in the early stages, was prominent in the back division, but made up a deal of her leeway in the last three furlongs, with Alfred Jackson in the other situation. It was a meritorious performance on the part of Tatterley, who had the steadying impost of 11st 6lb in the saddle. He is a New Zealand bred horse, by Birkenhead (imp.) from Tatters, by Quilt, and this was his second success at the meeting, having secured the Kensington Handicap on the opening day. Rounding the bend Gillaliambi and Heathergo fell, but though the horses escaped injury, W. Baker, who had the mount on the latter, got his nose broken.

The field for the Waverley Handicap was one short of a dozen, and there was most money for Kingsburgh and Alured, the former of whom had the market call, while Pongo and Moonbria were also staunchly supported, but elastic prices could be had about the others. After Miss Mooltan had had a short turn in front, Wirrilla took up the running, which, with Pongo, Alured, and Limelight to escort him, he carried on until the half-mile post had been cast behind; then Limelight ran through, and swept into the straight, with Alured and Greyspear in his wake. Limelight was still at the head of affairs at the distance, but was tiring, and beat a retreat a little further on, leaving Greyspear and Alured in front, and the imported horse seemed to interfere with the favourite, and the pair passed the judge's box with Greyspear a length to the good, while Kingsburgh was a couple of lengths away third. Moonbria was badly placed in the early stages, but made up a good deal of ground in the last couple of furlongs, and finished fifth, nearly level with Limelight. The winner, who is the property of Mr. H. R. Denison, by whom he was imported last year, is by Spearmint (son of Carbine, and winner of the English Derby, and the Grand Prix de Paris) from Kitty Grey, by Ayrshire from Stethoscope, by Speculum from a mare by Lord Lyon, and this was his first success under colours. He is engaged in the Melbourne Cup, with 7st 7lb, and incurs a penalty of 10lb.

Eight of the 17 listed for the Dowling Steeplechase were stripped for the battle over the big timber, and the best fancied of them were Torone and the Victorian representative, Weenobah, the former having a slight market call; while at longer odds Don Q., Coradjil, and Zoeholme met with sound support. The race was a chapter of mishaps, and only sufficient got round to fill the places. Torone came down over the fence opposite Oxenham's; Weenobah was pulled up at the racecourse double near the mile post, his jockey, R. Koops, having lost one of his stirrups at the previous fence; then all went well until they reached the fence opposite Oxenham's for the second time, over which Wadden came to grief, and over him Coradjil and Zoeholme fell. Up to that point Don Q. was in front nearly all the time, but The Miser headed him as they ascended the hill for the last time, and, with King Lucre as escort, the Victorian horse showed the way over the fence at Kensington; but King Lucre got on terms as they flew the obstacle near the half-mile post, headed him ere the final obstacle was cast behind, and easily beat him by half a dozen lengths, while old Don Q. was some half-score lengths away. The winner has previously had some experience over the battens, and won several races in that branch of the game, but recently he has had his attention turned to cross-country racing, and this was his initial success. King Lucre was submitted to auction on Thursday, but the bidding did not reach the £100 reserve, and subsequently he changed hands privately, his new owner getting a smart return for his outlay.

Van Biene was sent out a warm favourite in a field that was one short of a dozen for the Grantham Stakes, a race restricted to three-year-olds that during the current season had not won a race (other than a handicap) of the value of 1000 sovs; and others supported with any degree of confidence were Giru, Carlita, and Coat o' Mail. Carlita, with Coat o' Mail as escort, cut out the work until in line for home, where the latter melted out of it, leaving Velours, Van Biene, and Giru just in the wake of the filly, who lasted the journey out, and won pretty comfortably from Giru, who just beat the favourite out of second money. Van Biene, who had a bad run in the early stages, was in the rear for half the journey, but he made up a lot of ground from the home turn. Carlita, who had to put up 10lb extra for her success in the Rosehill Guineas, is by Charlemagne II. from Couronne, by Gipsy Grand, and her engagements include the V.R.C. Derby.

The betting market indicated Cagou as the best of good things for the Randwick Plate, and, in a field of half a dozen, even money was the best price to be had about him at the rise of the barrier; while Lilyveil and Ulva's Isle were the only others backed for money. The Prudent King colt, Indiscretion, with Posinatus and Cagou in his wake, was responsible for a sound pace until six furlongs from home; here Posinatus joined issue with the colt, while Ulva's Isle, who had been running in the rear, began to improve his position, and the son of Positano followed Indiscretion and Cagou into the home stretch. Indiscretion retired inside the distance, where Cagou began to fail, and thence the issue lay between Ulva's Isle and Posinatus, the former of whom had the Melbourne Cup winner in difficulties ere the half distance was reached, and easily held him from that point, while Lilyveil just cut Indiscretion out of third money. The winner, who is the property of Mr. A. G. White, was bred at the Monastery Stud by Mr. Francis Foy, and is by Positano (imp.), from Lord Ullin's Daughter (winner of the Australian Cup 1905) by Lochiel from Ferthingal by Minting, and is engaged, with the handy impost of 8st 3lb, in the Melbourne Cup, for which he was made favourite before returning to scale. In the last Melbourne Cup, Ulva's Isle ran third to Posinatus and Belove, and, in the meantime, his only success was in the Trial Stakes on the opening day of the Spring meeting at headquarters. He was nicely in the Waverley Handicap, with 8st, but as his success in that event would entail a penalty for the two miles race at Flemington next month, he was reserved for the w.f.a. event. Posinatus, who escorted Ulva's Isle part the post, also holds a Melbourne Cup engagement with 8st 8lb. The race was run at a solid pace all the way, and all going well in the meantime Ulva's Isle has very bright prospects for the Melbourne Cup.

The re-union was brought to a successful close with the Final Handicap, the finish for which was quite up to the best traditions of Randwick. There were 18 starters, the best fancied of whom was Willow Green, while Tofua, Challenge Cresse, Golden Hop, and Lochano had, each and all, plenty of friends. The favourite, however, never gave his backers any hope, and after Lochano, who was paced by Chid, had set a solid pace until fairly in line for home, Simon Frisco and Firm appeared upon the scene, and, coming on, the pair quickly silenced opposition, and fighting out every inch of ground in the run home passed the judge's line of vision separated by half a head, which margin was in favour of Simon Frisco, while Laggard secured the other situation. This was Simon Frisco's second success at the meeting, the Suburban Handicap having fallen to his prowess on Wednesday last. He is a Mungie Bundie bred horse, by Birkenhead (imp.) from Isolt, by Multiform from Belllicent, by Maxim, and is trained by W. Leadbeater.

The details of the racing are appended:—

HIGH-WEIGHT HANDICAP, a handicap sweepstakes of 10 sovs each, with 500 sovs added. For three-years-old and upwards. The owner of the second horse to receive 100 sovs, and the owner of the third 50 sovs from the prize. 6f.

Betting: 4 to 1 v Ligero, 6 to 1 v Spurn, 13 to 2 v Tatterley, 7 to 1 v Alfred Jackson, 10 to 1 v Woolerina, 12 to 1 each v Ultramarine, Heathergo, and Collar, 14 to 1 each v Sweet Malt and Symetris.

Tatterley was smartest off the mark, while Ligero and Grain dwelt and lost some ground. Tatterley showed the way past the five furlongs post, followed at length intervals by Sweet Malt, Tiffany, and Alfred Jackson, but when they reached the half-mile post Wynworth ran up next the leader, and was succeeded by Alfred Jackson, Tiffany, and Sweet Malt, while Heathergo and Gillaliambi fell. Tatterley swung round the bend and into the home stretch with Wynworth, Tiffany, Sweet Malt, and Alfred Jackson in pursuit, and at the distance Alfred Jackson and Spurn challenged the leader, but M'Lachlan kept him going, and the New Zealander won by three-parts of a length from Spurn, who beat Alfred Jackson by a neck for second place. Symetris was a neck away fourth, and a length in advance of Toast and Sweet Malt, with Woolerina at the head of the others, while the last to pass the post were Grain and Ligero. Time, 1m 15¼s.

WAVERLEY HANDICAP. A handicap sweepstakes of 10 sovs each, with 1000 sovs added. For three-years-old and upwards. The owner of the second horse to receive 200 sovs, and the owner of the third 100 sovs from the prize. 1½m.

Mr. "J. Northern's" br h Alured, by Flavus (imp.)—Alme, 6yrs, 9st 1lb (P. J. Foley) 2

Mr. "K. S. Macleod's" ch h Kingsburgh, by Wallace—Alexandra (imp.), 4yrs, 8st (W. M'Lachlan) 3

Other starters: Pongo, 7st 12lb (J. Lightfoot); Moonbria, 7st 11lb (H. Curran); Limelight, 7st 9lb (J. Reynolds); Wirrilla, 7st 8lb (J. Quigley); Adgio, 6st 9lb, inc. 9lb over (W. M'Cabe); Allingamite, 6st 9lb, inc. 2lb over (W. Hincks); Miss Mooltan, 6st 7lb (C. Carmont); Sir Vive, 6st 7lb (F. Foley).

Betting: 7 to 2 v Kingsburgh, 4 to 1 v Alured, 5 to 1 each v Pongo and Moonbria, 10 to 1 v Limelight, 12 to 1 each v Greyspear and Sir Vive, 14 to 1 v Allingamite, 25 to 1 each v the others.

Miss Mooltan jumped off in front and turned into the straight, followed by Pongo, Wirrilla, and Moonbria, but as they came down the running Wirrilla took charge and passed the judge's box, followed at length intervals by Pongo, Alured, and Limelight, with Moonbria last. Wirrilla turned out of the straight, followed at length intervals by Pongo, Alured, Limelight, and Sir Vive, with Moonbria still in the rear. In that order they raced along the side to the mile post, where Wirrilla was still in charge from Pongo, after whom came Alured, Sir Vive, Limelight, Greyspear, and Kingsburgh. Without material change they raced along the back and to the bend, where Limelight ran past Wirrilla and Greyspear moved into third place. Limelight turned for home clear from Alured and Greyspear, and at the distance the latter was running very erratically, interfering with Alured. When they reached the half-distance Greyspear had charge of affairs from Alured and Kingsburgh, and, coming on, the imported horse won by a length from Alured, with Kingsburgh two lengths away. Limelight was a length further back, closely attended by Moonbria, Wirrilla, Pongo, and Sir Vive, while Adgio and Allingamite were last to pass the post. Time, 2m 4½s.

DOWLING STEEPLECHASE, a handicap sweepstakes of 1 sov each, with 500 sovs added. The owner of the second horse to receive 100 sovs, and the owner of the third 50 sovs from the prize. About 3m.

Mr. Alex. Callinan's ch h King Lucre, by Goldbar—Lemonade, aged, 10st 5lb (F. Moore) 1

Mr. "S. A. Rawdon's" ch g The Miser, by The Jew—Lord Wilton mare, aged, 11st (P. Robertson) 2

Mr. A. J. Morton's b g Don Q., by Alva—Zinnia, aged, 9st 9lb (S. Howie) 3

Other starters: Torone, 11st 8lb (G. Woodburn); Zoeholme, 11st 6lb (J. Shepherd); Coradjil, 11st (L. Hagerty); Wadden, 10st 10lb (J. Collitt); Weenobah, 10st 10lb (R. Koops).

Betting: 3 to 1 v Torone, 7 to 2 v Weenobah, 4 to 1 v Don Q., 4 to 1 each v Coradjil and Zoeholme, 10 to 1 v The Miser, 12 to 1 each v King Lucre and Wadden.

The start was a bad one, The Miser losing about half a furlong, and Coradjil half that distance. Torone and Don Q. made play, and the former flew two sets of the quadruple in front of the stands, after which he gave place to Don Q., who cleared the other sets, followed by Torone, Wadden, Zoeholme, Weenobah, King Lucre, Coradjil, and The Miser in that order. As he followed Don Q. over the fence opposite Oxenham's Torone came to grief, and Weenobah was pulled up at the first of the racecourse double, leaving Don Q. with a ten lengths' lead, which he held across the hill from Coradjil and Wadden, after whom came The Miser, Zoeholme, and King Lucre. Don Q. was seven lengths clear from Wadden as they flew the fence near Kensington; Coradjil, who was fencing badly, was next, followed by The Miser and Zoeholme, with King Lucre still in the rear. Save that Coradjil lost his place there was no change as they crossed the half mile and three furlongs obstacles, and negotiated the first two fences of the quadruple, but at the third The Miser was disputing the lead with Don Q.; Wadden was at the heels of the pair, followed at short intervals by Zoeholme, Coradjil, and King Lucre. The fence opposite Oxenham's brought down Wadden, and over him came Coradjil and Zoeholme, but still Don Q. held the lead from The Miser. Don Q. had a slight advantage from The Miser as they flew the racecourse double near the mile post, but as they ascended the hill The Miser ran past Don Q., and a little further on King Lucre moved into second place. When they reached the half-mile post King Lucre ranged up alongside of The Miser, the pair being eight lengths clear from Don Q., but after crossing the last fence King Lucre took charge, and, coming on, won by six lengths from The Miser, who was ten lengths clear from Don Q. Time, 6m 9¼s.

Hon. A. Wynne's ch c Van Biene, by Petrillo (imp.)—Cello, 8st 2lb, all. 5lb (W. M'Lachlan) 3

Other starters: Velours, 8st 7lb (R. W. Brennan); Hopoast, 8st 7lb (M. Connell); Lingard, 8st 7lb (W. Black); Silver Beach, 8st 2lb (W. Barnett); Maister Lass, 8st 2lb (W. Lillyman); Prince Minner, 8st 2lb (P. Maher); Mombasa, 8st 2lb (W. Callinan); Coat o' Mail, 8st 2lb (A. Callinan).

Betting: 2 to 1 v Van Biene, 4 to 1 v Giru, 6 to 1 v Carlita, 7 to 1 v Coat o' Mail, 12 to 1 each v Velours and Hopoast, 14 to 1 v Lingard, 20 to 1 v Maister Lass.

Carlita was smartest off the mark, but ere the end of the first furlong she was joined by Coat o' Mail, the pair being a length in advance of Velours and Lingard, with Van Biene whipping in. In that order they ran to the five furlongs post, where Carlita and Coat o' Mail were still disputing the lead a length and a half from Velours, after whom came Hopoast and Giru, with Van Biene still at the tail of the hunt. Nearing the half mile post Carlita shook off Coat o' Mail, the other positions being unchanged, and Carlita turned for home well clear from Coat o' Mail, Velours, Giru, and Van Biene. Coat o' Mail melted out of it at the distance, where Velours, Giru, and Van Biene ran up to the heels of Carlita, but the filly was going comfortably in front, and scored by a couple of lengths from Giru, who beat Van Biene by a head for second place. Velours was a head away fourth, and eight lengths clear from Coat o' Mail, who was succeeded by Prince Minner and Lingard; while the rear division included Maister Lass, Mombasa, and Hopoast. Silver Beach broke one of his legs three furlongs from home. Time, 1m 40¼s.

RANDWICK PLATE, a sweepstakes of 10 sovs each, with 2000 sovs added. For three-years-old and upwards. The owner of the second horse to receive 400 sovs, and the owner of the third 200 sovs from the prize. 2m.

Messrs. J. O. Peterson and P. A. Connolly's ch h Lilyveil (imp.), by Martagon—Chiffon, 5yrs, 9st 7lb (W. McLachlan) 3

Other starters: Danaus, 9st 7lb (P. J. Foley); Indiscretion, 7st 4lb (W. McCabe); Cagou, 9st 6lb (M. Connell).

Betting: Even money on Cagou, 9 to 2 v Lilyveil, 5 to 1 v Ulva's Isle, 14 to 1 each v Posinatus and Indiscretion, 20 to 1 v Danaus.

Danaus was the first to get going, and after passing the half mile post, Indiscretion ran to the front and showed the way round the bend and into the straight a length in advance of Cagou, after whom came Posinatus, Danaus, and Lilyveil, with Ulva's Isle five lengths in the rear. Without material change they came down the running, and Indiscretion passed the judge's box a length from Posinatus and Cagou, Lilyveil, and Danaus were close up next, and Ulva's Isle still in the rear. In that order they turned out of the straight and raced along the side and back to the six furlongs post, where Posinatus ranged up level with Indiscretion, and Ulva's Isle began to improve his position. The field closed up in the next furlong, and still on terms Indiscretion and Posinatus came round the bend with Cagou at their heels, and Ulva's Isle half a length away, followed by Lilyveil and Danaus. They turned for home without alteration, and at the distance Indiscretion and Posinatus were still fighting it out, with Ulva's Isle at their heels, but inside that point Ulva's Isle silenced opposition, and, coming on, won by a length and a quarter from Posinatus, who was four lengths in advance of Lilyveil. Indiscretion was a neck away fourth, and two lengths in front of Cagou, with Danaus last. Time, 3m 29¼s.

FINAL HANDICAP, a handicap sweepstakes of 10 sovs each, with 1000 sovs added. The owner of the second horse to receive 200 sovs, and the owner of the third 100 sovs from the prize. 1m 1f 100yds.

Mr. J. O'Neill's br g Laggard, by St. Alwyne (imp.)—Restive, 6yrs, 8st 2lb (W. Barnett) 3

Other starters: Relievo, 9st 8lb (J. E. Pike); Portrush, 9st 1lb (J. Quigley); Willow Green, 9st 1lb (W. M'Lachlan); Golden Hop, 8st 13lb (W. Black); Lochano, 8st 9lb (J. Lillyman); Charleville, 8st 2lb (P. J. Foley); Challenge Cresse, 7st 10lb (E. Duncan); Necktie (imp.), 7st 4lb (J. Reynolds); Balranald, 7st 2lb (A. Callinan); Trinobantes (imp.), 7st (W. M'Cabe).

Betting: 6 to 1 v Willow Green, 7 to 1 each v Tofua and Challenge Cresse, 8 to 1 each v Golden Hop and Lochano, 14 to 1 each v Portrush, King Cleo, Firm, Balranald, and Laggard, 16 to 1 v Chid, 20 to 1 each v Simon Frisco, Relievo, and Trinobantes, 33 to 1 each v others.

Lochano made play, and passed the mile post with Chid at his girths, and closely followed by King Cleo, Portrush, and Trinobantes. Save that Simon Frisco moved up into third place, there was no change of importance until they reached the bend, where Relievo ran up next to Lochano and Chid, with Simon Frisco next, and so they turned for home. Relievo was in front for a few strides at the distance, inside of which he beat a retreat, leaving Simon Frisco just in front of Firm, and a great finish was fought out between the pair, ending in a half-head win for Simon Frisco from Firm, who had Laggard at his girths. Charleville was fourth, followed by Tofua, Balranald, Willow Green, and Necktie, while the last to pass the post were Brunnhilda, Rovigno, and King Cleo. Time, 2m 0¼s.

OBITUARY.

CARDINAL FERRATA.

ROME, Oct. 10.

The death is announced of Cardinal Ferrata.

[Cardinal Ferrata, who was an Italian by birth, held the important posts of Prefect of the Sacred Congregazione della disciplina die sagramenti, and Cardinal Prefect of the Congregation of Bishops and Regulars, to which position he was appointed in 1910. The latter is a most important congregation, and has 32 other Cardinals as members. Added to these positions was that of Secretary of State, the next highest position to that of Pope, to which he was appointed by the present Pope Benedict in August last. Cardinal Ferrata was born in 1877, and was, therefore, only 37 years of age. His position in the Church was shown clearly at the recent election of the Pope, when he was popularly supposed to have the best chance of selection to the post of supreme command. He was created a Cardinal in 1896 by Pope Leo.]

ARBITRATION COURT.

DEPUTY PRESIDENT.

MELBOURNE, Saturday.

The Executive Council, acting under the authority of the Commonwealth Conciliation and Arbitration Act Amendment Act, which was passed yesterday, has appointed Mr. Justice Powers as Deputy President of the Arbitration Court during the absence of Mr. Justice Higgins. The Attorney-General, Mr. Hughes, said that the Arbitration Court was now ready to resume business on Monday.

JUDGE INJURED.

COUNTRY MOTOR ACCIDENT.

The Attorney-General, Mr. Hall, has received information of a motor accident to Judge Gibson. The accident occurred at Narromine on Saturday. It appears that his Honor and Mr. M'Kean, who was prosecuting for the Crown on that circuit, were together in the car, when the accident happened, and were both thrown out. Judge Gibson sustained rather serious injuries, two ribs being broken, and he received severe abrasions about the head and face. Mr. M'Kean was only slightly injured, not sufficiently to interrupt his duties as Crown Prosecutor. His Honor, however, has been admitted to the Nyngan Hospital, and although progressing favourably, he will probably be detained there for some time. Mrs. Gibson left Sydney last night for Nyngan.

Mr. Hall has been compelled to postpone the sitting of the Sessions and District Court at Cobar, which was to begin to-day. Mr. Walter Bevan was despatched to Cobar last night, and will be appointed an Acting Judge at to-day's meeting of the Executive Council. He will preside over the Quarter Sessions at Cobar, which will open to-morrow.

MINERS' BAND.

BROKEN HILL, Sunday.

WAR PROBLEMS.

TRADE WITH THE ENEMY.

The London Chamber of Commerce has issued a statement as to the effect of contracts entered into with enemy subjects prior to the outbreak of war in response to queries put by members.

The questions so far dealt with, together with the provisional answers, include the following:—

1. War risks under c.i.f. contracts. Who is liable, buyer or seller?—Depends on custom of trade, and what is a reasonable insurance contract in the circumstances. Having regard to the usual form of Lloyd's policy, the presumption under ordinary circumstances is in favour of the buyers undertaking the risk.

2. What are the limitations in regard to dealing with the subjects of alien enemies? There must be no such dealings (except by His Majesty's license) except that, if enemy subjects are allowed by the Government to remain in the territory of Great Britain or an ally, ordinary contracts for their daily subsistence and employment are probably permissible, and contracts in the ordinary way of business, involving no extensive operations which might lead to conflicts of national duty, are possibly permissible.

3. Payments due by British firms to alien enemies. What position should be taken by the British firms? No such payments whatever should be made during war, except possibly in pursuance of contracts as above indicated.

4. Is the making of contracts with an alien enemy legal? No; except as stated under 2.

5. If contracts have been made during peace with alien enemies, does the supervening of war make the fulfilment of them an illegal act, or does it merely excuse such fulfilment? It suspends performance until peace—except when (a) such suspension would be inconsistent with the object of the contract. (b). The continuance of the contract would militate against public policy (as in the case of insurance of hostile ships and cargoes against capture). In these excepted cases the contract is voided. In any case performance during war is unlawful if it involves any communication with the enemy.

6. If the right to contract or to fulfil contracts is qualified by war, does such qualification attach only to national enemies domiciled in the enemy country, or does it extend to all residents, including British, who may remain in the enemy country, or enemies residing here?—In our opinion it extends to all—subject to licenses and the indulgence extended to enemies permitted to remain here or in allied territory.

7. Can the attorney of an alien enemy sue to enforce payment in the Courts during the war, and in point of time what difference does the formal declaration of war make?—We think not.

INCREASING THE NOTE ISSUE.

"Backblocks" writes:—

(1) What is approximately the percentage of gold reserve held at present against present issue of Australian notes? (2) If another four million was raised in issue of notes, what will be percentage of gold held? (3) If could the Australian Government raise a war loan of four millions without unduly straining, in your opinion, the basis of gold reserve?

(1) 50 per cent. (2) As the only way that notes can be issued under the existing law is by selling them for their face value in gold, the percentage after £4,000,000 worth were issued would be 61 per cent. The Treasury could, however, reduce the percentage to 25 per cent. by investing over 12 millions instead of £4,500,000 as at present. (3) Not if the gold reserve were maintained on its present basis, or even on a 33 1-3 per cent. basis.

WUNDERLICH, LTD.

COMPANY AND PATRIOTIC FUNDS.

The deputy chairman of the above company, Mr. Alfred Wunderlich, has addressed a letter to shareholders which lays down certain principles to be followed in connection with the company's contributions to patriotic funds. He says:—

In handing you herewith your dividend cheque for the half-year ending August 31, 1914, the directors of Wunderlich, Limited, take the opportunity of conveying to the shareholders the policy they have deemed advisable to adopt under the conditions arising out of the present disastrous war. They have decided that their most patriotic duties, in order of importance, are to preserve intact the industry of the company, to provide against hardships falling on the employees who have served them so well hitherto, to contribute to the maintenance, when necessary, of the families of those employees who have joined the expeditionary force, and to maintain the rate of dividend, so that the small investors, for whom the directors hold themselves, so to speak, as trustees, shall not suffer from a diminution in their incomes. As regards any contribution from the company to the various war funds, the directors consider that they are not justified in disposing of moneys belonging to the company in any manner that could possibly react to the disadvantage of the shareholders, and they have decided that contributions shall be left entirely to the shareholders themselves. Accordingly, the three managing directors, namely, Mr. Ernest Wunderlich, Mr. Alfred Wunderlich, Dr. O. Wunderlich, have each contributed the sum of £100 towards the patriotic funds, and they herewith confidently appeal to the individual shareholders to contribute a share, however small, of their dividends towards the common cause.

It is a pleasure to the directors to be able to state that the employees, of their own initiative, have come forward with numerous contributions.

THE WOOL MARKET.

The A. M. L. and F. Company, Ltd., write:—

The result of the London sales has proved rather more favourable than anticipated, our cable indicating a decline of some 15 per cent. for merinos, but an advance in crossbreds of 15 per cent. Having in view all the circumstances, this result is pleasing. We fear, however, that as a guide for future realisations these values must be regarded as artificial, and only indicative of the basis of values of wools on the spot, for which we know there is a big demand by the manufacturers of military cloth for the allied nations. This series of sales, it is understood, will last for a week only. The next London sales being at present arranged for November 24, which series will again be probably curtailed; thus the wools shut out, together with arrivals of the new clip from Australia, the Argentine, and the Cape, are apt to aggregate large stocks in London, and create a similar position to that experienced at Home some years ago, when heavy quantities were carried forward from series to series for a long time, to the detriment of the market.

In the local market private selling has continued on the basis of values recently established, the demand still being mainly for free fleece wools and skirtings. The demand however, is widening, and some of the less attractive qualities have been sold during the week at prices which, all things considered, must be regarded as satisfactory.

COMMERCIAL.

BRITISH CHEMICAL TRADE.

HOW WAR AFFECTED IT.

The chemical market was quiet last week, and prices generally were without change. As to the position of the English market, interesting information is contained in the report of Sir S. W. Royse and Co., Ltd., dated Manchester, August 28, as follows:—"With the outbreak of war, and the consequent interruption in steamship services, there has been a stoppage of supply of many chemicals from the Continent, even from countries friendly to us. The effects have soon become apparent here and in other importing countries, stocks in this country at least being only very moderate; there has consequently been an active demand for various goods, but at the same time business has not been for large lots, because the quantities are not available, and again the tightness of money and an unreadiness to give credit have had a restraining effect. There have been some heavy advances in values, sometimes from day to day, but matters appear now to be settling down somewhat. Sulphate of copper has had a moderate inquiry, and has advanced 20/ per ton. Acetates of lime, brown and grey, are firm, without much business. Carbonate and caustic potash are in limited supply on spot, and there are eager buyers. Montreal potashes also are scarce, and bringing high prices. All lead salts are much dearer; white and brown sugar of lead are wanted; nitrate of lead has been selling well; litharge also is in demand, and makers fully engaged. Tartaric acid and cream of tartar have advanced very strongly, supplies being quite light. Yellow prussiate of potash is almost unobtainable, and this has caused an increased demand for prussiate of soda. White powdered arsenic is about £5 per ton dearer. In tar products, crude carbolic acid has quickly been affected by the war, advancing heavily in price, but latterly there is some little easing, perhaps caused by the prohibition of export bringing on the home market some quantities that were intended for abroad. Crystal carbolic has been active, and liquid carbolic is much dearer. Solvent naphtha remains steady, but has little inquiry. Benzoles had a panic advance early in the month, but with petrol remaining unchanged the position is now becoming normal. Creosote is steady, but may be affected by increasing stocks consequent upon the stoppage of exports. Pitch is quiet; the Continent will now require less, but this should cause an increased consumption in this country. Sulphate of ammonia business is difficult, under present conditions caused by the war; production is below normal, but an increase in stocks appears probable, and altogether the outlook is not bright. British heavy alkalies have an increased demand through cessation of Continental shipments, and are bringing better prices."

A comparison of English prices ruling a month before the war and a month after is as follows:—

BUTTER MARKET.

Prescott, Ltd., reports of the Australian butter markets:—

Sydney.—There has been a firm tone in the market this week, and sales at 104/ for local trade have been brisk. Seconds are also in better demand. Export buyers are inclined to operate more freely. After the Moldavia shipment there will be a break in the freight arrangements, and it will not be possible to make any further shipments until early November. For the week ended October 3 10,111 boxes have been exported to all ports, the London shipment including 772 boxes unsalted.

Melbourne.—The advanced quotation for westerns has had the effect of turning buyers' attention to other brands, and this description shows a larger surplus available this week for export. Production is not moving up very rapidly, and unless good rains are experienced there is not much chance of a further increase. Quotations are:—Superfine Westerns, 1 ; other good brands, 11½d to 11½d; seconds, 10d to 10½d.

Brisbane.—On account of the pressure by export buyers, the market was advanced to 108/ on Monday, and as long as the present demand continues there is no likelihood of a change. Good rains have fallen throughout the Darling Downs and other dairying centres. Last week's production is estimated at 8914 boxes.

TO-DAY'S HOMEBUSH OFFERINGS.

The number of sheep and of cattle listed for to-day's Homebush sales is as follows:—

Sheep (including lambs)	42,266
Cattle (including calves)	2,787

The amount of wool manifested to arrive at Darling Harbour on Saturday totalled 2810 bales.

BREADSTUFFS.

FIRST NEW WHEAT.

Dalgety and Co., Ltd., write:—"The first truck of wheat for the season 1914-15 has arrived at Sydney goods, and will be offered at public auction on Monday by Dalgety and Co., Ltd. The Attorney-General has decided that the statutory price of 4/2 only applies to old wheat, and that new wheat may be offered for public competition and sold at the best price obtainable. This wheat was grown by Mr. A. Frater, at Baan Baa, and is a good sample of milling quality. Competition for it is expected to be good, and the price obtained much higher than that which was fixed by statute."

At Darling Harbour on Saturday 215 tons of wheat and 103 tons of flour were manifested to arrive.

LONDON MARKET CABLES.

THE WOOL SALES.

LONDON, Oct. 9.

At the wool sales to-day competition was animated for all sorts, and there was a hardening tendency. Sales of the following clips were reported:—Doondi, highest 14d, average 12 7-8d; Noorama, 12d, 10½d; Kilummin, 13½d, 12d.

Oct. 11.

At the wool sales on Saturday the following prices were realised:—Bunda, /25½, /24½; Milo, /13, /11½; Warbreccan, /11½, /11½.

During the series there were catalogued 37,329 bales, of which 34,018 were sold. Of 8829 bales offered on Saturday 4127 bales were New Zealand wool.

The market closed on Saturday the highest of the series, with increasingly strong competition, on account of home manufacturers. All crossbreds showed a decisive advance upon opening rates. Shafty merinos were slightly harder, but short, faulty, and wasty fine-haired wools felt the lack of Continental support, and declined 10 to 15 per cent. compared with July rates.

Bar silver was quoted to-day at 23 5-8d per ounce standard, a fall of 3-16d.

RAILWAY MARKET.

At the railway forage and grain sales on Saturday the market for all classes of produce was very firm; and consequently substantial prices were again realised for all prime lots offered at auction.

A limited supply was on hand; but business was brisk, and the timekeepers whistle was not often heard. The most significant feature was the sale of a truck of specially prime oaten chaff from Thompson Bros., of Brewongle, for 7/1 per cwt. Beyond this, other lots were disposed of at about late rates.

Consignments placed in position for sale:—Hay, straw, chaff, 41; grain, 1; potatoes, 10.

MINING.

A STAGNANT WEEK.

VALUES EASIER.

It is to be hoped the past week will hold the record for dulness for many a day. Business is swayed wholly and solely by the war news cabled from day to day, and as this showed that the Allied troops in France have not yet been able to drive the enemy off French soil, though otherwise the position is satisfactory, operators were rather depressed. This not only affected business, but values also.

Owing to the metallurgical supremacy achieved by Germany, the war has been a serious blow to Australian metal mining, hence it is not a matter for surprise that projects are on foot in England to bridge the gap caused by the war. At such a critical time, much can be done by Australian metal treatment companies to help the metal producing mines, by according them special terms. Unfortunately, however, a different line of action is taken, and is causing a deal of dissatisfaction in mining circles.

In illustration of this statement, it is said that a certain copper mine of this State, having ceased smelting consequent on the war, took up the bottoms of several furnaces, and sent the material, ranging from 20 to 90 per cent. of copper, to a New South Wales copper-treatment works, and was astounded to learn that the cost of treatment would range from 3/6 per unit for 90 per cent. bottoms, down to 5s for 20 per cent. The first-mentioned figure would be at the rate of £15 15s per ton for simply smelting, or nearly three times greater than the charge in England, for the more costly electrolytic process of extracting the gold and silver contents from copper. Say this particular parcel of "bottoms" averaged 50 per cent. of copper, and the price 5s per unit, the cost of treatment would be £12 10s per ton—an exorbitant charge.

In the opinion of mining men, the treatment companies should do all in their power to meet the producers of minerals in a fair and reasonable manner. In this particular instance the treatment company is not doing so. Indeed, they say, it looks as if it is trying to take advantage of the necessities of the copper mine. This was not said in a hostile spirit, but simply with a view of urging treatment companies to help the mining industry in every possible way at the present critical juncture.

Saturday's proceedings at the Stock Exchange brought the week to a close, with stagnation sitting like a leaden weight upon both buyers and sellers.

CRICKET.

SECOND ROUND COMMENCED.

RAIN AGAIN AFFECTS WICKETS.

REMARKABLE COINCIDENCE.

The second round of grade matches was commenced on Saturday. As on the previous Saturday, the wickets were affected by rain, though not to such an extent. In no instance was two innings' completed in a match, and totals of 316, 209, and 217 were recorded. The weather was rather cool for cricket; the hot nor'-wester of Friday giving place to a cool southerly and an overcast sky.

A remarkable coincidence occurred in the Paddington-Gordon match. On the previous Saturday Glebe won the toss from Gordon, and sent them in. The latter scored 209, and Glebe had no wickets down for 2 runs when stumps were drawn. On Saturday Paddington won the toss and sent Gordon in. The latter scored 209, and Paddington had no wickets down for 2 runs when stumps were drawn. This was a remarkable happening, but it is rendered more so by reason of the fact that in both matches Gordon commenced their innings at the same time, 2.25, and concluded at precisely the same time, 5.38 p.m.

The following table will illustrate the coincidence more clearly:—

Against.	Gordon's Score.	Innings Start.	End.	Opponent's Score.
Glebe	209	2.25 p.m.	5.38 p.m.	0 for 2
Paddington	209	2.25 p.m.	5.38 p.m.	0 for 2

Notwithstanding the soft wickets, several batsmen distinguished themselves, with veteran L. W. Pye heading the list with 91. A. C. Rough (six) was the only bowler to take five wickets or more.

Following are the results of the play:—

University four for 93, against North Sydney, 144.
Central Cumberland, 316, against Middle Harbour.
Glebe, 217, against Balmain, four for 14.
Gordon, 209, against Paddington, none for 2.
Petersham, 153, against Sydney, five for 54.
Western Suburbs, 165, against Redfern, two for 38.

THE HONOUR LIST.

Batting.

L. W. Pye, 91. D. A. Gee, 79.
Sid Thomas, 80. H. G. Pratten, 66.

Bowling.

A. C. Rough, six for 106.
A. A. Mailey, four for 68.

The principal match of the afternoon was that at the University Oval between the premiers (University) and North Sydney. The latter won the toss and batted first. They started badly, the third wicket falling at 24. Then Hall and L. A. Minnett added 65—a much better record—but the remaining six wickets fell for only 55. Roy Minnett two for 29, Stack three for 30, Best two for 24, and Barrack two for 17 all performed ably on a wicket that gave some assistance to the bowlers. Hall (44) and Minnett (41) played good cricket. Barbour made three catches, two of them being excellent efforts. 'Varsity started fairly well, the first wicket (Barbour) falling for 23. A rot set in, and four wickets were down for 29. Then came the recovery, Roy Minnett hitting whilst Lamrock defended his wicket. Result—64 runs added without being separated, the record being four for 93 when stumps were drawn. Minnett's 44 not out included seven fours and one six—all powerful strokes. Hopkins and S. G. Long each secured two wickets for North Sydney.

Central Cumberland passed the third century against Middle Harbour at the Sydney Cricket Ground. L. W. Pye and Sid Thomas added 139 for the fifth wicket by free cricket. Pye batted two hours for 91 (nine fours). He made numerous swinging leg hits. The feature of Thomas's innings was well-timed late cutting. He made 80 (eight fours) in 70 minutes. After the fall of the sixth wicket the batsmen did very little, and the innings totalled 316. Several chances were missed, Randell being particularly unfortunate in this respect, and the ground fielding generally was only fair. Slow bowler Rough secured six wickets for 106 runs in 20 overs. Randell took three for 95.

Glebe and Balmain met at Birchgrove, and at the close of play Glebe were in a winning position, as, after scoring 217, they dismissed four of their opponents for 14, Cotter taking two for 7 and Kelleway two for 4. Eight Glebe batsmen reached double figures, with Coleman (40) and Kelleway (30) the leaders. Buckle, Cotter, Taylor, and Fossberg also reached the twenties. Bardsley was out lbw for 14, a fate which befel Kelleway. Balmain tried six bowlers, but Folkard (two for 68) and Norman (three for 56) were the only ones to take more than one wicket. Balmain lost four good wickets in a dull light.

Through no fault of the club officials, Chatswood oval did not receive its supply of Bulli soil until last week, so that Caretaker Love has been placed at a disadvantage. In fact, the wicket provided for the Paddington-Gordon match was not that which was at first intended to be used. Winning the toss, M. A. Noble sent Gordon in, and so well did left-handers Winning and Stafford bowl at the start on a pitch of various paces, and on which in the early stages the ball kept very low, that Iredale (8), Trumper (19, made in an hour), and Macartney (31, made in 35 minutes) were all out for 65, and the position favoured Paddington. Subsequently, however, Gee (79), Wheatley (19), Freeman (20), Boyce (41), and Shortland (20) proved difficult to dislodge, and the good total of 209 was reached. However, had Paddington's fielding been less faulty, the total would have been much smaller. In one over Gee gave two chances off Noble, the first being to Trenerry at straight hit; he misjudged the flight of the ball, and then backed on to the pickets, hurting his side. The ball cleared the pickets after bouncing off his hands. Afterwards Gee's "long handle" was in evidence; he hit eight fours and two sixes. Boyce's 41 was a neat effort. Wicket-keeper Munn dismissed four batsmen, and took some erratic returns from the field very cleverly. Noble (three for 60 (the last three wickets), and Stafford three for 51, were the most successful bowlers.

The wicket at Petersham oval favoured the bowlers, and the scoring was moderate. Petersham won the toss, and decided to bat. Norton, who bats left-hand, went in first, and when he was dismissed the record was four for 66, his share being a vigorous 43, made in 45 minutes. He hit seven fours and one six. Wenhols (21), Clarke (25), J. Scott (11), and Waddington (18) made serviceable stands, but the innings closed for 153. Coffey took three wickets for 16 in 23 balls, and Smith two for 9 in 24 balls. Barry two for 15 and Toby two for 32 also met with success. Sydney failed badly with the bat, five wickets being down for 54 when stumps were drawn at 20 minutes to 6 on account of the failing light. Dr. Tozer (23 not out) batted solidly. Scott and Andrews each took two wickets at a small cost.

The pitch at St. Luke's Park, Concord, was in a fairly good condition. Western Suburbs decided to bat first. Prentice lost his wicket in the second over, but the next two partnerships added 46 and 53 runs respectively. However, with the exception of the seventh partnership between Diamond and Hazlitt, the remaining wickets fell without materially augmenting the score. In response to 165, Redfern lost two for 38, (Thatcher 24 not out) in the semi-darkness. For the westerners Pratten batted very attractively for 68 (four 4's), made in 74 hour. F. W. Docker hit vigorously for 28 (one six and three fours). Diamond batted neatly for 21. Dupain, when batting, obstructed Haye's view of the ball, which flew up and struck the wicketkeeper in the face, and necessitated his retiring. Barnes filled the breach, and smartly stumped Dive. Adams bowled well, his figures being three for 22. Mailey took four for 68.

AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.

Both the eastern high pressure and the Antarctic disturbance have made a rapid advance, having travelled about 700 miles during the 24 hours ended at 9 a.m. Saturday.

Although the Antarctic disturbance has passed eastward, its influence is still being felt along our coast. The centre on Saturday morning was situated to the south of New Zealand, and it was showing a considerable amount of energy between there and the capital of the Dominion.

The monsoonal depression over the northern half of Australia shows better definition than it did on Friday, while the western high pressure has advanced about 900 miles eastward and gained a little in intensity.

The centre continues to travel in high latitudes, which should mean further rain along our coastal districts.

Ocean Forecast.—Fresh squally southerly winds over and south from the Straits, and extending along the New South Wales coast, but soon moderating around Tasmania. Heavy weather off the south island of New Zealand.

SPORTING.

THE TURF.

Messrs. Wm. Inglis and Son hold their annual spring sale of bloodstock at T. Payten's Newmarket stables, commencing at 2.30 p.m. to-day. The 56 lots catalogued include a number of high-class brood mares, racehorses in training, and untried stock. Among the untried stock is a draft of unbroken two, three, and four year olds, bred by Messrs. Thompson Bros. at Widden and Rylstone, as well as lots from Hobartville and Muswellbrook. The racehorses in training include Steel Gun, Haut Special, Azoic, Malthusian, Tympano, Hot Cake, and Master Paul.

The weights for City Tattersall's Club Spring Meeting are promised this forenoon.

Up to 4 p.m. to-day Mr. W. L. Davis, secretary, will receive entries for the Canterbury Park October meeting, on the 24th inst. The prize money aggregates 800 sovs, and the items include a race for two-year-olds at special weights.

The stakes provided by the A.J.C. for the spring meeting were well distributed—English, New Zealand, Victorian, Queensland, Western Australian, and Tasmanian sportsmen participating in the spoil. The prize money aggregated £38,878, of which the lion's share—£20,458—was captured by New South Wales sportsmen: £8543 was secured for New Zealand, £4548 for England, £3979 for Victoria, £650 for ...., £600 for Western Australia, and £100 for ...... For the first time in the annals of Randwick the principal event has been appropriated by an English-owned horse, St. Spasa, the winner of the Metropolitan, being the property of the ex-Australian sportsmen, Messrs. Robinson and Clark, who, in 1902, won the Melbourne Cup with The Victory. Not since 1905, when the late Mr. G. G. Stead's team was so successful at Randwick, has New Zealand had such a profitable innings, and that good sportsman, Mr. E. J. Watt, who keeps strong teams of racehorses in Australia, as well as in his native land, comes out on top of the list of winning owners, with £7969; thanks to the prowess of Woorak, the Victorian sportsman, "Mr. K. S. MacLeod," comes second with £3004; and Mr. J. Chambers follows with £2718; while the portions received by no fewer than seven other local owners run into four figures. The money distributed is a record for Australasia for any one meeting.

Mr. J. Grisdale, secretary of the Newcastle Jockey Club, invites, up to 8 p.m. to-day, entries for the annual race meeting, in aid of the local charities, on the 21st inst. The prize money amounts to £450 sovs, distributed over five races.

W. M'Lachlan heads the list of winning jockeys at the A.J.C. Spring meeting with three successes, scored on Mountain Knight in the Derby, Del Monte in the Breeders' Plate, and Tatterley in the Highweight Handicap; P. Maher, A. Callinan, and G. Meddick dispute second honours, with two wins each—P. Maher on Garlin in the Clibborn Stakes and Barlow in the Sydney Handicap; A. Callinan on St. Spasa in the Metropolitan and Starland in the Gimcrack Stakes; and G. Meddick on Chid in the Squatters' Handicap and Greyspear in the Waverley Handicap. Jockeys with a single winning mount each are L. Hegarty, W. Callinan, J. Quigley, W. Barnett, W. Manning, J. Pike, G. Woodburn, S. Howie, K. Bracken, C. Carmont, J. Killorn, F. Moore, J. Lightfoot, W. Black, and S. Lammond.

Entries close at 4 p.m. to-day with the secretary, Mr. H. R. Evans, for the meeting of the Menangle Park Racing Club, on the 22nd inst. The prize money aggregates 350 sovs.

Sire honours at the A.J.C. meeting were well distributed, no fewer than 20 sires being represented on the winning list. Positano (imp.), Mountain King, Birkenhead (imp.), and San Francisco (imp.) are represented by two winners each, Ulva's Isle acting on behalf of Positano in the Trial Stakes and Randwick Plate; Mountain Knight and Del Monte for Mountain King in the Breeders' Plate and ...... respectively; Tatterley for Birkenhead in the Kensington and Highweight Handicaps; and Simon Frisco for San Francisco in the Suburban and Final Handicaps. The English sire, St. Amant, was successfully represented in the Metropolitan by the imported horse St. Spasa; and similarly Carbine's son, Spearmint, was represented by Greyspear in the Waverley Handicap. Other sires with one winning representative each were The Inquisitor, Petrillo (imp.), St. Alwyne (imp.), Ibex, Linacre (imp.), Herloch, Antonio (imp.), Merriwee (N.Z.), Traquair (imp.), Prudent King (imp.), The Welkin (imp.), Fortunatus (imp.), Goldbar, and Charlemagne II. (imp.).

Celosia, the winner of the Debutante Stakes, at Caulfield, on Saturday, has incurred 10lb penalty for the V.R.C. Maribyrnong Plate.

At Randwick on Saturday the stewards questioned R. Koops, the rider of Weenobar, as to the reason for that horse running off the course near the mile post in the Steeplechase. Koops explained that he had come into collision with a fallen horse, and lost a stirrup and one rein. The stewards accepted the explanation, but thought that Koops should have made an effort to recover, seeing that the next obstacle was some distance away.

VICTORIAN TRAINING NOTES.

CAULFIELD.

MELBOURNE, Saturday.

There were a couple of light showers this morning, but the weather did not interfere with the work which was done. The sand was in good order, and appeared to be fast. Clontaff spurted four furlongs in 56s. Sir Prince and Klinger finished up strong work with three furlongs in 40s, Sir Solo joining in the last mile, which was run in 1m 48s. Garlin, who looks none the worse for his railway journey, spurted a couple of furlongs in 27s. Raymont sprinted five furlongs in 1m 9s. Owen Roe, a hardy-looking customer, had no trouble in getting over six furlongs in 1m 24s. Ptah ran three furlongs up the side in 38s, and Paoli was going easily alongside of a field of six for five furlongs in 56½s. Gladwyn (E. Grace) was sent a mile and a half, which she did very well in 2m 44s, picking up Light Dragoon for the last mile and beating him in 1m 54½s. Leucops spurted five furlongs in 1m 7½s. Others doing the same journey were Lord Dadley and Sinfoni 56½s, Adorn 51½s, and Trawl 53½s. Greek Fire was stretched out for a mile and a quarter, which was run in 2m 17s, and he went freely. Lasso did well to run nine furlongs in 2m 4½s, and Sheriff Muir did easy work. Amata spurted three furlongs in 41½s. Guncar put in a serviceable mile and a quarter. Ronville ran away from Come Away for three furlongs up the side in 52½s. Hopevale beat Andesine by six lengths at the finish of five furlongs in the smart time of 1m 3½s. Wimmera's mile was done in 1m 53½s, and Belfast got over the same ground in 1m 52½s. The Sap spurted four furlongs in 53½s, and many others spurted up for their engagements in the afternoon.

FLEMINGTON.

It was cold and showery, and, beyond short spurts by most of the horses engaged in the afternoon, there was little fast work attempted. Savannah and The Lintie were going very easily for a mile in 1m 52½s, and Dame Quickly ran half that distance on the tan in 55s. Aristaeus galloped a mile and a quarter on the tan in 2m 18½s, Craganour helping him for the last mile in 1m 45½s. Iownit's half mile on the tan occupied 52s, and Precious went a furlong further in 1m 7½s. Moving Picture spurted three furlongs on the tan in 38½s, and Sir Alwynton, a plain, useful looking gelding, went strongly for a furlong further. Miss Meadows did well to run five furlongs on the tan in 1m 5½s, and Gun Girl beat Rose King over a furlong less in 53½s. Newcomers were Philio, Burrabadeen, Nari, Hush Money, and Remuneration, from Queenscliff, who looked well and went briskly over a short distance.

VICTORIAN SPORTING NOTES.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

Mr. Norman Falkiner won the Maribyrnong Trial Stakes with Red Signal, because Pretty Bobby, who finished in front of him, carried overweight. Mr. Falkiner met James Lynch, the owner and trainer of Pretty Bobby, at Caulfield yesterday, and asked him to accept a cheque for £300 as a slight recompense for his bad luck. An hour or so afterwards Red Signal earned Mr. Falkiner £300, by running second in the Debutante Stakes, while his horse Rathlea, won the last race of the day, the Toorak Handicap, worth £1000 sovs., to the winner.

LAWN TENNIS.

STRATHFIELD OPEN TOURNAMENT.

A cold, cheerless day reduced the attendance at the Strathfield courts on Saturday to moderate dimensions, which was unfortunate for the absentees, as many matches were full of interest. Misty rain fell at intervals, but play continued uninterruptedly.

Wright put Rice out of the metropolitan singles championship by two sets to one, although, after losing the first set, Rice looked all over a winner until the last moment. The tie in this event in which Eric Jones beat N. Peach was attractive, for, with Jones following up his break services, brilliant volleys and fine passing shots were numerous. Jones did well to defeat Peach in the straight sets.

Wright and A. B. Jones defeated F. and N. Peach in the metropolitan doubles championship, but had nothing to spare.

Leeds and Miss Metcalfe started well by taking the first set in the challenge pairs from Marsh and Miss Metcalfe, but the latter pair forced the pace and won, Marsh's bustling volleying doing great execution. Some fine ladies' play was seen in the doubles, in which Mrs. Ford and Miss Collings beat Mrs. Doyle and Miss Jones. The rests, while lengthy, were by no means tame, for the ground strokes were full of speed, and the volleying severe. Results:—

Metropolitan Singles Championship.

G. W. Wright beat H. M. Rice, 6-3, 5-7, 6-4.
E. L. Jones beat N. Peach, 6-3, 7-5.

BOXING.

M'COY LOSES ON A FOUL.

The Volaire v M'Coy match at Rushcutter Bay Stadium on Saturday night had a dramatic ending. In the sixteenth round, when ahead of his opponent in the matter of points, M'Coy hit Volaire low. The Frenchman fell to the boards with an agonised look, and while in the act of rising he was sent down again by means of a stiff right to the head. The referee, without hesitation, pushed M'Coy off, and disqualified him. The crowd showed their true sporting instincts by applauding the decision. M'Coy was hooted as loudly as Volaire was cheered.

Volaire weighed 9st 9½lb and M'Coy 9st 7½lb. The opening was of a tame nature, and several rounds elapsed before the men warmed to their work. M'Coy then distinguished himself by landing a number of cleverly-placed body blows. Volaire retaliated with a few hard left hooks, but his defence was rather weak, and he took a lot of punishment before he rattled the Australian. Volaire on a number of occasions pierced the defence of M'Coy with hard blows, which had a quietening effect on the local man, but when the incident occurred which disqualified M'Coy the Frenchman was in arrears on points, and could only have won by means of a knock-out blow. M'Coy hit his opponent while being separated by the referee on several occasions, and while holding him with one hand struck him with the other. His play was by no means as clean as usual.

MOTOR DRIVING, if taught thoroughly, is a Profession that you can obtain employment in almost anywhere. Over 100 cars are sold weekly in Sydney. This means that drivers have to come from somewhere, and students have been trained in this school since January this year. Many of these hold Government, and some of the best positions, in this city; others have gone into the country on stations, etc., to take charge of cars, there being no garages there. Drivers command high salaries in country districts if they can do their own repairs. Each student in this school is taught to be a mechanic as well as a driver. 21 students have received their licenses from the police in 1 days. 11 out of 12 passed successfully, Friday, Sept. 11th; 9 out of 9 passed first try, Friday, Sept. 18th. These are records that will bear investigation from the Traffic Dept., where my students go to pass the test. The police, firemen, ambulance, tramway men, etc., come to this School for tuition; it's the largest in the State. Six cars for students to practise on. No failures. Your license or money refunded. Each pupil helped to obtain a position when competent, in 10 to 20 days. Course, £1 10s for car and services.

PAINLESS FILLINGS.

Another stride has been made in my treatment of sensitive teeth. The reputation of my own special method of painless extraction is firmly established. Now I am able to guarantee absolute painlessness in connection with fillings—even of the most sensitive teeth.

This splendid dental triumph has been made possible by a special apparatus, which I alone in Sydney possess. This permits me to drill a tender tooth and to prepare it completely for filling without causing you the semblance of pain. And, moreover, my fillings are as lasting as they are satisfactory. I guarantee them for 5 years. Not a verbal guarantee—but a written one—fully entitling you to its benefits if at any time my work should need revision. And this also applies to plate work.

I guarantee Painless Extractions of the most difficult teeth—even if abscessed. I fulfil this guarantee or forfeit £5 to you. There are no painful prickings, no swollen gums, or broken teeth to fear. If your heart be weak, my treatment will not affect you.

OPEN TILL 6 P.M. DAILY (Saturdays Included). UNTIL 9 P.M. FRIDAYS.

COSTUMES TO ORDER AT ECONOMIC PRICES.

"The most serious problem of the moment, in the eyes of all business men, is how to keep the people of this country, as far as possible, fully employed. Reduction of Staff, whether in the warehouse, the shop, the counting-house, the workroom, or the factory, would be one of the worst evils which could befall the business community and the country at large.

We are endeavouring, in common, we believe, with other business houses—large and small—throughout Australia, to act upon this principle; but the public will realise the impossibility of doing so unless we have the support of our customers."

The above is an extract from a fellow-retailer's advertisement in London, which so coincides with our own views that we have repeated it (with slight alteration).

We have between 500 and 600 hands in our Costume-to-Order Department, whom we are anxious to keep in steady employment. In order to achieve this object WE ARE GIVING ESTIMATES BASED ON MOST ECONOMIC LINES. We trust by this means we shall be able to maintain our standard output.

WHAT "THE TATLER" SAYS

ON DISCRIMINATE SELF-DENIAL.

"The sorrows of a terrible war are with us. So rapid has been the march of events during the past few weeks, that we are bewildered. There is a tendency to sit in sackcloth and ashes; to cast, as it were, all raiment from us, and to give up all things. This is a feeling that has to be strongly combatted. There must be discrimination in our self-denial. There are many who are dependent upon us for support by the work they do. The orders for dresses which have been given must not be countermanded; this gives employment; the little sewing women must still come—that is, if the women of Britain are true to the traditions of their race. When the exaltation of self-denial prevails there is an inclination to take drastic steps, without pausing to consider the effect that they will have on others. Everyone knows that short, quick suffering, even though very acute, is far easier to bear than suffering that is prolonged, although it is less intense. The really unselfish woman will now spend her money, it is true, with care, but will be prepared to deny herself luxuries; it will most likely be for many a month to come. Every woman who does this will, in a small way, be helping England to maintain her proud position, and thereby helping trade. The axiom that we must, one and all, bear in mind is to 'Beware of the exaltation of self-denial.' Self-denial there must be—let it, however, be true self-denial; let it take the form of something that hurts ourselves, and not those who are dependent on us, it may be for work, or it may be for money." From "The Tatler" of August 19.

Its ingredients are pure Norwegian Cod Liver Oil, Beechwood Creosote, Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. Combined in scientifically accurate proportions as in Lane's Emulsion. XXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXXX

THIS SHOULD BE THE BEST NEWS TO-DAY.

Confirming the pronouncement made on this page on Saturday morning.

A ROBE AND COSTUME "DISPERSAL" BEGINS AT SNOW'S TO-DAY.

The story of this unusual event is told on PAGE 5, as fully as a quarter-page space will allow.

SUMMARISED.

There will be 280 Robes of the finest character in Silk Eoliennes, Crepe de Chines, Light-weight Wool Delaines, Satin Charmeuse, and Paillettes, at from

ONE-THIRD TO ONE-HALF THEIR ACTUAL VALUES.

All are fine Robes—very fine Robes, if you please, that have never been shown before.

When you come in this morning you will have absolutely first choice, and the prices you will pay will be no more than one-half, and, IN MANY CASES, NOT MORE THAN ONE-THIRD OF THEIR ACTUAL VALUES.

The dispersal will also include
The simplest of Morning Dresses.
The cool Holiday Frocks.
The richer Race and Garden Frocks.
And Evening Gowns.
Many of them at liberally reduced prices.

CROWDED OUT OF THE LARGER ADVERTISEMENT ARE:—

RACE AND GARDEN FROCKS AT DISPERSAL PRICES.

Former prices have been given scant consideration in this new re-marking. The main point is that the entire number must make way as quickly as possible for other Merchandise.

And there are some marvellously pretty garments among them. Dainty little frocks in the new styles with long Tunics, that are just the thing to last out this season.

A RACE FROCK has Black Crepe de Chine Coatee and Skirt of Fawn Marquisette with touchings of Tango Silk. Formerly £5/10/. Dispersal Price, £4/14/6.

A BLUE CREPE SILK FROCK, with Basque Coatee, was £7/7/. Dispersal Price, £5/15/6.

A VIEUX ROSE CREPE COSTUME, with Roman Striped Silk Lining and Hip Sash Skirt, 5½ Guineas now, instead of 7½ Guineas.

A Heavy-weight SILK CREPE FROCK is lined throughout with Paillette Silk, and carries Moire trimmings. There are 4 shades, Sand, Purple, Black, and Cherry. Regularly £5/19/6. Dispersal Price, £3/5/.

A SAXE BLUE SILK CREPE ROBE, embroidered Tan and Royal. Formerly 80s. Dispersal Price, 60/6.

As the second Caliph said:—Four things come not back—the spoken word, the sped arrow, time past, THE NEGLECTED OPPORTUNITY.

The last necessarily receives the emphasis to-day.

WHAT ARE YOUR BOY'S KNICKERS LINED WITH?

Remember, the lining is against the skin—to give perfect comfort it must be soft and "silky" properly.

FERGUSON'S SILESIA

has a soft, silky finish—it's as comfortable as can be. It works into shape more easily—a contrast to the stiff material often used.

Look for the tab "Lined with FERGUSON'S SILESIA."

Made by FERGUSON'S, of Calico fame.
